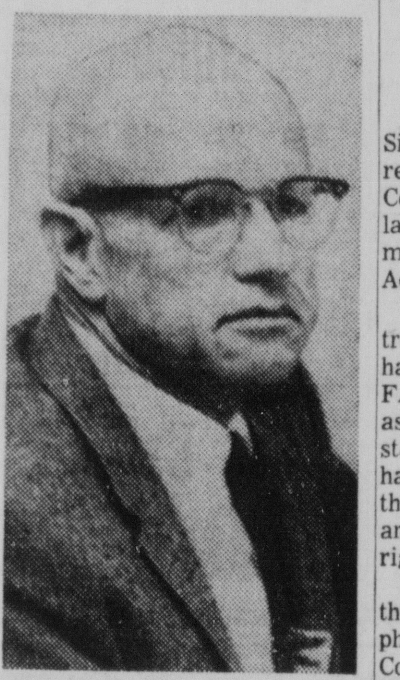
All 16 Missing In River Rapids Reported Safe



BACK TO SCIENCE — Seven years ago today, Albert Clark Reed, an aerodynamacist at California Institute of Technology, disappeared. A year ago he was discovered working as a groom at Hollywood Park race track. Today he's back at a desk (above) again an aerodynamacist. Radio Message Lacks Details

GREEN RIVER, Utah (AP) — Sixteen men, women and children reported missing in the turbulent Colorado River were reported safe late Monday in a sketchy radio message received by the Federal Aeronautics Agency.

Archie Swenson, Civil Air Patrol commander in Moab, said he had the radio report from the FAA. Swenson said he listened in as pilot James Hurst told the FAA station at Hanksville, Utah, he had two persons picked up from the river bank aboard his plane and that the other 14 were all right.

Mrs. Hurst said she received the same information in a telephone call from the San Juan County sheriff's office at Monticello, which had picked up the report.

There were no further details available.

Used Rubber Rafts

The party of 16 had challenged the Colorado's deadliest rapids in three rubber rafts. Hurst started searching when they didn't come out on schedule. He spotted the stranded pair by the river bank in Cataract Canyon and sent a helicopter in to get them. Hurst said then he thought both were men but he couldn't be sure.

The 16 persons had set out June 28 in their rafts to bob down the Green and Colorado Rivers from here to Hite, 80 miles in a straight line but much farther along the corkscrew course of the rivers. Hurst started searching when he hadn't heard from them Monday.

When he spotted the two stranded boaters, he said there was no sign of the others.

At Grand Junction, Colo., Sam Jones of the FAA station told The Associated Press he contacted the FAA radio station at Hanksville when Hurst was talking to that station.

Shuttle Operation

"There was some static," said Jones, "but I could hear clearly that the whole bunch was safe. I believe he (Hurst) said he had picked up two and the others were safe. I think he said the rest were at Hite."

Hite has no phone or radio connections.

Jones said he was not sure whether Hurst was flying back to Moab or Green River.

While the copter flew to the canyon floor, Hurst headed in his airplane for an emergency strip on the cliffs above the Colorado to meet the helicopter on its trip out, pick up the passengers and fly them to Green River.

The party disappeared in the same treacherous rapids which swallowed up an elderly California boater last May.

Most of this group also were Californians.

Holmes O. Miller, 49, of Bakersfield, engineer for Intex Oil Co., was listed as skipper.

Hurst said Miller checked out with drugstore owner Lee Howland before leaving Green River and said there were 16 in all in his party.

FBI Combing Baltimore Area For Fugitive

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation launched an intensive search of the metropolitan area Monday for a man on its list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Agents said 34-year-old Eugene Francis Newman, who uses aliases of Lyons, Hall, Salmerio and Sheridan, is known to have associates in the northwest section of Baltimore and at one time lived in a U. S. 40 motel on the outskirts of the city.

Newman is accused of shooting a guard with a machine gun, the FBI said, as he and two companions — all masked with silk stockings — attempted to rob an armored car of $498,500 at Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1955.

The formal charge against him is unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. The armored car was taking money, in American and Canadian currency, to Buffalo from a Canadian race track at Fort Erie, Ont.

The FBI said Newman has a violent temper and "should be considered extremely dangerous." He has served terms in the State Reformatory at New Hampton, N.Y., and the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

Newman, 33, stands 5-8, weighs 170-180, has blond hair and blue eyes. He has scars near his right eye and on his left cheek and tatoos — the name "Danny" and the number 13 — on his right forearm and left hand. He has worked as a bricklayer, clerk, construction worker, counterman and laborer.

Family Off On Cross-U.S. Trip Via Tractor, Wagon

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (UPI) — A 34-year-old Marion, Ohio, farmer put a life-long ambition on the road here Monday.

James R. Clark and his wife and two children embarked from this resort town on a 3,600-mile cross-country trip by farm tractor and wagon to Seaside, Ore.

"It's what I've always wanted to do since I was a boy," said Clark.

As servicemen prepared his tractor for the long journey, Clark said that he was a relative of frontiersman William Clark of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition.

"My great grandmother was the granddaughter of Clark," he said.

Clark plans to take much the same route that the explorers took back in 1804. He hopes to complete the trip in 30 days, covering more than 100 miles a day at a speed of about 30 miles per hour.

Attached to the tractor is a wooden-bodied wagon on rubber wheels that Clark says "the whole family pitched in and helped build." Inside are bunk beds, a convertible couch, a collapsible table, wooden chairs, a cupboard, and a portable cooking stove.

The group, which includes Mrs. Marie Clark; Larry, 11, and Janis, 8, expected to reach Harrisburg before nightfall.

Clark hopes to reach Seaside, Ore., for the state's centennial celebration next month. He will present a letter to Oregon Gov. Mark O. Hatfield from Ohio's top executive, Michael B. DiSalle.

When asked how he planned to return to Ohio, Clark said, "we'll be flying back."

GOP Gleeful As Democrats Blast Butler

WASHINGTON (AP) — A demand for Paul Butler's resignation as Democratic national chairman was sounded Monday as Senate and House Democrats furiously replied to Butler's criticism of the Democratic leadership in Congress.

While Republicans listened with unconcealed happiness, various Democrats denounced Butler as a party wrecker and heaped praise on Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and other Democratic legislative leaders.

Republicans kept quiet. Their Senate leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, looking not a bit grieved, remarked that it is the better part of wisdom not to get mixed up in other people's family brawls.

Butler started the fraternal fracas. He said in a televised interview Sunday quite a few Democrats were unhappy about the performance of the Democratic-controlled Congress and the party will be in a tough situation for the 1960 presidential election unless the leadership comes up with what he regards as a better record.

But Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn (D-SC) told the House he had reliable information Butler had sometimes supported Republican candidates, and now, he said, the chairman was falling for a Republican trick to divide the Democrats and win the 1960 election. He said Butler should resign and be replaced by someone "Democrat party-born and party-bred."

A Senate freshman from Butler's state of Indiana, Sen. Vance Hartke, took the floor in that chamber to declare that Johnson's "concept of responsible Congress" was responsible for Democratic victories in last year's congressional elections.

Earlier, the assistant Democratic Senate leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana said Butler's complaints would only "furnish fodder" for President Eisenhower and the Republican National Committee.

Draft Call For 7,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Monday issued a draft call for 7,000 men in September, the same number previously announced for August.

The new call brings to 2,463,430 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September, 1950.

Dogs, Rabbit Survive Red Rocket Trip

Soviets Declare Valuable Space Data Collected

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Monday night two dogs, a rabbit and recording instruments were shot into space in a single rocket and brought back intact. The animals and instruments weighed more than two tons.

The Soviets did not say how high or how far the rocket traveled. They gave no size or weight of the propelling rocket other than to say it was an intermediate range missile.

But they declared much valuable data was collected on conditions in space.

A Moscow radio commentator said:

"It is the most powerful single-stage cosmic rocket sent up so far. It is much stronger than anything the Americans have."

Another said:

"This is a great day for Soviet science. We have proved that radiation barriers are not impossible to overcome."

For one of the dogs, Otvazhnaya (Daring), it was the third trip into space, the official Tass news agency reported. The name of the other dog is Znezhinka (Snowflake). The rabbit is nameless.

Animals Reported Well

The animals are quite well after their trip, Tass said. The rocket that carried them was sent aloft at 6:40 a.m. Moscow time July 2.

The Soviets described it as a single stage geophysical ballistic intermediate range rocket.

An announcement said: "Repeated ascents made by the same animals have made it possible to obtain data about the adaptability of animals to flights in rockets. New data on the behavior of animals under conditions or weightlessness have been obtained."

The only information the Soviets gave on the height or distance of the flight was that it went to "great altitude." The launching site was not disclosed.

The Soviets never claimed other flights exceeded 130 miles from the earth. One dog named Albino was reported last February to have made two such flights aboard a rocket.

Instruments Listed

Among the instruments on the rocket, the agency said, was equipment for studying ultraviolet rays, the structure of the ionosphere, micrometeor showers, the direction and speed of air currents at various altitudes, and the density, pressure, temperature and composition of the atmosphere at various altitudes.

Last May the United States sent two female monkeys, named Able and Baker, 300 miles above the earth. They returned alive when the nose cone of the Jupiter missile that took them on a 10,000 m.p.h. ride for 1,500 miles was recovered.

Holiday Traffic Toll Held To 276

By The Associated Press

Traffic	276
Drowning	179
Miscellaneous	65
Total	520

The nation's motorists surprised the experts during the Fourth of July holiday weekend by holding the traffic death toll to 276.

Grim though the count was, it fell 74 short of a pre-holiday estimate of 350 by the National Safety Council.

The two-day, 54-hour weekend observance from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday saw 520 deaths from accidents of all types. The other 65 deaths from miscellaneous accidents were not broken down.

About one-third of the drownings resulted from boating accidents. At least 60 boating deaths were counted—all but two of them from drowning: Drownings numbered 101 in this year's two-day Memorial Day weekend.

Ben-Gurion's Party Suggests Early Elections

JERUSALEM, (AP)—The tangled political situation left by David Ben-Gurion's resignation as prime minister prompted his party to suggest Monday that the date for national elections be moved ahead.

That would allow the 73-year-old Israeli leader to take his case to the people, who have backed him up often in the past.

Ben-Gurion quit Sunday night because two parties in his government coalition refused to support the Cabinet's decision to sell 250,000 Israeli-made mortar shells to West Germany, despite bitter Israeli hatred of the Germans for mass slaughter of Jews. Most of the shells already have been delivered.

The Israeli press has reported the arms sold to West Germany were grenade launchers, but the Defense Ministry in Bonn said this seemed to be a mistranslation of the German word for mortar shells.

President Izhak Ben-Zvi began consultations on forming a new government, and the job was not an easy one. His first visitor was Akiwa Govrin, chairman of Ben-Gurion's Mapai (Labor) party. As expected, Govrin proposed that Ben-Gurion form a new government.

The task was made more urgent by the fact that Ben-Gurion refused to have anything to do with the four ministers from the two rebellious parties in his 15-member coalition, which is staying on as a caretaker government. He refused even to meet with them. He has no authority to fire them.

There seems little support in Parliament for the idea of a minority government without the two dissident parties, the left-wing Achduth Avodah (Unity of Labor) and Mapam (United Workers).

Million Chicagoans Cheer Queen, Philip

CHICAGO (AP)—Queen Elizabeth captivated Chicago Monday. She in turn said she was "frightfully excited" by the city.

More than a million persons, police said, cheered Elizabeth and Prince Philip in the streets. Thousands more fought to get close to Buckingham Fountain Landing where the royal couple stepped ashore in the morning.

At one moment, the crowd—mostly camera-carrying women and children—surged through police lines and swarmed toward the automobile in which the Queen and William G. Stratton, governor of Illinois, were riding.

Motorcycle policemen, racing their motors, came between the spectators and the Queen and quickly restored order. There were no other incidents in the huge throngs that turned out to catch a glimpse of the royal couple.

An anonymous telephone message, warning that a bomb had been planted in the Museum of Science and Industry, sent the police bomb squad quickly to the building. They found nothing and the queen's visit there was uneventful.

Elizabeth and Philip stepped ashore promptly at 10 a.m. from their barge which brought them from the royal yacht, Britannia, tied up at a buoy outside the Chicago breakwater.

Thundering guns, the roar of two formations of Navy jets flying low in tight formation, the hoarse whistles from freighters and sirens on pleasure craft greeted the Queen and her husband.

After greeting Gov. Stratton, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, and the diplomatic representatives of the United Kingdom and six Commonwealth countries, the royal party entered automobiles and drove slowly across the city to the International Trade Fair.

Visits to the Museum of Science and Industry and the Art Institute were to follow, then tea, and finally the mayor's banquet at night.

In a short speech from a prepared text at the banquet, Elizabeth stressed international ties and had special praise for the foreign aid program of the United States.

"Today, the United States plays a role of vast responsibility around the world," she said. "Your government has shown a wonderful understanding and generosity to the less fortunate nations of the world which has given them a sense of partnership and stability during a critical period of the world's history.

"The nations of the Commonwealth, too, can testify from their own long experience to the true meaning of partnership among free peoples."

Theresa Brewer Fired From TV Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Theresa Brewer was fired from Perry Como's summer replacement television show Monday after she announced she planned to quit because an assistant producer had hurt her feelings.

Miss Brewer claimed that Henry Howard, who soon will become full producer of the NBC show "Perry Presents," said unkind things about her singing and was rude to her press agent.

Howard said that Miss Brewer had been difficult to work with because she thought she should get billing over her co-star, singer Tony Bennett.

Man Survives Leap From Bay Bridge After Wrecking Car In Police Chase

STEVENSVILLE, Md. (AP)—A suicide-bent man survived a 65-foot leap from Chesapeake Bay Bridge Monday after his speeding car rammed another on the towering span in his desperate attempt to flee from police.

The man was identified by State Police as Paul Richard Harmon Jr., 27, of Tilghman, Talbot County.

Cpl. M. S. Clevenger, who with Trooper S. R. Chaffey had engaged in a seven mile chase at speeds up to 100 m. p. h., said Harmon told him he jumped in an effort to kill himself.

Clevenger gave this report:

He and Chaffey took off after Harmon for speeding near Grasonville, seven miles east of the bridge on U. S. 50. As they roared along the dual highway, Harmon kept them from passing by speeding up or forcing them to the side.

As Harmon raced up the bridge, he lost control about two-tenths of a mile from the east shore. His car hit an eastbound station wagon driven by Mrs. Marjorie Helen Buarque of Washington. Her car spun to the right. Harmon's vehicle careened into the left rail and came to a halt.

Harmon opened his right door, dashed across the bridge, climbed up on the rail and jumped just as Clevenger rushed up.

Clevenger said Harmon shouted as he came to the surface:

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry."

An unidentified man pulled a life preserver from his car and tossed it over the side to Harmon. He grabbed it to keep afloat until a boat manned by bridge personnel arrived.

Clevenger said the water was about 20 feet deep at the point. Harmon paddled around for about 25 minutes before he was rescued.

Mrs. Buarque was treated at Annapolis General Hospital for a bruised left arm and shock and released.

Both automobiles were badly damaged and traffic was tied up for some time on the busy crossing.

Harmon was taken to the Queen Annes County jail at Centreville. State Police said he would be charged with speeding, reckless driving and failing to heed an officer's order to halt. No date was set for a hearing.

Knife-Waving Trio Demands Getaway Car

Visiting Women, Children Seized At Monroe, Wash.

MONROE, Wash. (UPI) —Three convicts armed with butcher knives and demanding a getaway car Monday night held 24 women and children, six inmates and three officers hostages at the Washington State Reformatory.

Dr. Garrett Heyns, state director of institutions, told reformatory Superintendent Earnest C. Timpany "not to give an inch."

Timpani told the knife-wielding inmates, "If you harm a hair on anyone, I'm coming in myself."

The inmates, who obtained their knives in the reformatory kitchen, were holding their hostages in the visitor's waiting room where the women and children had come to visit inmate relatives or friends.

Wanted Car

The trio demanding a getaway car also told Timpani they planned to take four hostages with them.

Minutes after the troublemakers initiated their bold bid for freedom, the institution was isolated by a cordon of more than 100 prison officers, Snohomish County sheriff's deputies, state patrolmen and local police.

Authorities at Seattle, about 25 miles southwest of here, offered to send up to 50 policemen to aid reformatory officials. But Assistant Superintendent Roger Maxwell said, "I thinl. we have all the manpower we need right now. It's a matter of sweating them out. The superintendent is communicating with them, trying to convince those fellows that what they're trying won't work."

The ringleader of the escape attempt was identified as Richard Murry. He told Timpani, "We're ready to go all the way."

Offered Himself

In one of his talks with the convicts, Timpani offered himself in exchange for the hostages, but his offer was rejected. Heyns, helping direct strategy from his headquarters at the state Capitol in Olympia, said, "If the boys begin violence, we will. Meanwhile, we're just standing by."

With Murry, 22, were two inmates identified as Robert Jasmin, 22, and Donald Decourcey, 23. Murry was in for grand larceny from Clark County, Wash. Decourcey, from nearby Everett, Wash., also was serving a term for grand larceny and Jasmin, also of Everett, was doing time for robbery.

The trouble started at about 3 p.m. p.s.t. (7 p.m. e.d.t.), an officer said.

The reformatory usually houses younger convicts and those serving time for lesser crimes. However, crowded conditions at the state penitentiary have made it necessary to place hardened convicts in the Monroe institution.

There are 848 inmates in the institution.

Flaming Car Crash Claims Six Lives

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Two cars crashed and burned in early morning fog Monday, killing six persons—a four-member family returning from a holiday and a father and his son.

Coroner J. Herbert Goyert identified the dead in one car as Robert Stanford, his wife, Dorothy, 28, and their children, Nancy, 1, and Robbie, 3. They lived in Joliet, Ill.

Killed in the other car was Earl U. Jetton, 26, Chicago. His son, Dale, 6, died later in a nearby Paducah, Ky., hospital after being pulled from burning wreckage by passing motorists.

"It is the most powerful single-stage cosmic rocket sent up so far. It is much stronger than anything the Americans have."

Another said:

"This is a great day for Soviet science. We have proved that radiation barriers are not impossible to overcome."

For one of the dogs, Otvazhnaya (Daring), it was the third trip into space, the official Tass news agency reported. The name of the other dog is Znezhinka (Snowflake). The rabbit is nameless.

Animals Reported Well

The animals are quite well after their trip, Tass said. The rocket that carried them was sent aloft at 6:40 a.m. Moscow time July 2.

The Soviets described it as a single stage geophysical ballistic intermediate range rocket.

An announcement said: "Repeated ascents made by the same animals have made it possible to obtain data about the adaptability of animals to flights in rockets. New data on the behavior of animals under conditions or weightlessness have been obtained."

The only information the Soviets gave on the height or distance of the flight was that it went to "great altitude." The launching site was not disclosed.

The Soviets never claimed other flights exceeded 130 miles from the earth. One dog named Albino was reported last February to have made two such flights aboard a rocket.

Instruments Listed

Among the instruments on the rocket, the agency said, was equipment for studying ultraviolet rays, the structure of the ionosphere, micrometeor showers, the direction and speed of air currents at various altitudes, and the density, pressure, temperature and composition of the atmosphere at various altitudes.

Last May the United States sent two female monkeys, named Able and Baker, 300 miles above the earth. They returned alive when the nose cone of the Jupiter missile that took them on a 10,000 m.p.h. ride for 1,500 miles was recovered.

Holiday Traffic Toll Held To 276

By The Associated Press

Traffic	276
Drowning	179
Miscellaneous	65
Total	520

The nation's motorists surprised the experts during the Fourth of July holiday weekend by holding the traffic death toll to 276.

Grim though the count was, it fell 74 short of a pre-holiday estimate of 350 by the National Safety Council.

The two-day, 54-hour weekend observance from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday saw 520 deaths from accidents of all types. The other 65 deaths from miscellaneous accidents were not broken down.

About one-third of the drownings resulted from boating accidents. At least 60 boating deaths were counted—all but two of them from drowning: Drownings numbered 101 in this year's two-day Memorial Day weekend.

Chicago Gets Look At Queen

Sidewalks in Chicago's business district are jammed as Queen Elizabeth (first car) waves during tour of city yesterday. Ben-Gurion's Party Suggests Early Elections

JERUSALEM, (AP)—The tangled political situation left by David Ben-Gurion's resignation as prime minister prompted his party to suggest Monday that the date for national elections be moved ahead.

That would allow the 73-year-old Israeli leader to take his case to the people, who have backed him up often in the past.

Ben-Gurion quit Sunday night because two parties in his government coalition refused to support the Cabinet's decision to sell 250,000 Israeli-made mortar shells to West Germany, despite bitter Israeli hatred of the Germans for mass slaughter of Jews. Most of the shells already have been delivered.

The Israeli press has reported the arms sold to West Germany were grenade launchers, but the Defense Ministry in Bonn said this seemed to be a mistranslation of the German word for mortar shells.

President Izhak Ben-Zvi began consultations on forming a new government, and the job was not an easy one. His first visitor was Akiwa Govrin, chairman of Ben-Gurion's Mapai (Labor) party. As expected, Govrin proposed that Ben-Gurion form a new government.

The task was made more urgent by the fact that Ben-Gurion refused to have anything to do with the four ministers from the two rebellious parties in his 15-member coalition, which is staying on as a caretaker government. He refused even to meet with them. He has no authority to fire them.

There seems little support in Parliament for the idea of a minority government without the two dissident parties, the left-wing Achduth Avodah (Unity of Labor) and Mapam (United Workers).

Million Chicagoans Cheer Queen, Philip

CHICAGO (AP)—Queen Elizabeth captivated Chicago Monday. She in turn said she was "frightfully excited" by the city.

More than a million persons, police said, cheered Elizabeth and Prince Philip in the streets. Thousands more fought to get close to Buckingham Fountain Landing where the royal couple stepped ashore in the morning.

At one moment, the crowd—mostly camera-carrying women and children—surged through police lines and swarmed toward the automobile in which the Queen and William G. Stratton, governor of Illinois, were riding.

Motorcycle policemen, racing their motors, came between the spectators and the Queen and quickly restored order. There were no other incidents in the huge throngs that turned out to catch a glimpse of the royal couple.

An anonymous telephone message, warning that a bomb had been planted in the Museum of Science and Industry, sent the police bomb squad quickly to the building. They found nothing and the queen's visit there was uneventful.

Elizabeth and Philip stepped ashore promptly at 10 a.m. from their barge which brought them from the royal yacht, Britannia, tied up at a buoy outside the Chicago breakwater.

Thundering guns, the roar of two formations of Navy jets flying low in tight formation, the hoarse whistles from freighters and sirens on pleasure craft greeted the Queen and her husband.

After greeting Gov. Stratton, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, and the diplomatic representatives of the United Kingdom and six Commonwealth countries, the royal party entered automobiles and drove slowly across the city to the International Trade Fair.

Visits to the Museum of Science and Industry and the Art Institute were to follow, then tea, and finally the mayor's banquet at night.

In a short speech from a prepared text at the banquet, Elizabeth stressed international ties and had special praise for the foreign aid program of the United States.

"Today, the United States plays a role of vast responsibility around the world," she said. "Your government has shown a wonderful understanding and generosity to the less fortunate nations of the world which has given them a sense of partnership and stability during a critical period of the world's history.

"The nations of the Commonwealth, too, can testify from their own long experience to the true meaning of partnership among free peoples."

Theresa Brewer Fired From TV Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Theresa Brewer was fired from Perry Como's summer replacement television show Monday after she announced she planned to quit because an assistant producer had hurt her feelings.

Miss Brewer claimed that Henry Howard, who soon will become full producer of the NBC show "Perry Presents," said unkind things about her singing and was rude to her press agent.

Howard said that Miss Brewer had been difficult to work with because she thought she should get billing over her co-star, singer Tony Bennett.

Man Survives Leap From Bay Bridge After Wrecking Car In Police Chase

The man was identified by State Police as Paul Richard Harmon Jr., 27, of Tilghman, Talbot County.

Cpl. M. S. Clevenger, who with Trooper S. R. Chaffey had engaged in a seven mile chase at speeds up to 100 m. p. h., said Harmon told him he jumped in an effort to kill himself.

Clevenger gave this report:

He and Chaffey took off after Harmon for speeding near Grasonville, seven miles east of the bridge on U. S. 50. As they roared along the dual highway, Harmon kept them from passing by speeding up or forcing them to the side.

As Harmon raced up the bridge, he lost control about two-tenths of a mile from the east shore. His car hit an eastbound station wagon driven by Mrs. Marjorie Helen Buarque of Washington. Her car spun to the right. Harmon's vehicle careened into the left rail and came to a halt.

Harmon opened his right door, dashed across the bridge, climbed up on the rail and jumped just as Clevenger rushed up.

Clevenger said Harmon shouted as he came to the surface:

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry."

An unidentified man pulled a life preserver from his car and tossed it over the side to Harmon. He grabbed it to keep afloat until a boat manned by bridge personnel arrived.

Clevenger said the water was about 20 feet deep at the point. Harmon paddled around for about 25 minutes before he was rescued.

Mrs. Buarque was treated at Annapolis General Hospital for a bruised left arm and shock and released.

Both automobiles were badly damaged and traffic was tied up for some time on the busy crossing.

Harmon was taken to the Queen Annes County jail at Centreville. State Police said he would be charged with speeding, reckless driving and failing to heed an officer's order to halt. No date was set for a hearing.

Knife-Waving Trio Demands Getaway Car

Visiting Women, Children Seized At Monroe, Wash.

MONROE, Wash. (UPI) —Three convicts armed with butcher knives and demanding a getaway car Monday night held 24 women and children, six inmates and three officers hostages at the Washington State Reformatory.

Dr. Garrett Heyns, state director of institutions, told reformatory Superintendent Earnest C. Timpany "not to give an inch."

Timpani told the knife-wielding inmates, "If you harm a hair on anyone, I'm coming in myself."

The inmates, who obtained their knives in the reformatory kitchen, were holding their hostages in the visitor's waiting room where the women and children had come to visit inmate relatives or friends.

Wanted Car

The trio demanding a getaway car also told Timpani they planned to take four hostages with them.

Minutes after the troublemakers initiated their bold bid for freedom, the institution was isolated by a cordon of more than 100 prison officers, Snohomish County sheriff's deputies, state patrolmen and local police.

Authorities at Seattle, about 25 miles southwest of here, offered to send up to 50 policemen to aid reformatory officials. But Assistant Superintendent Roger Maxwell said, "I thinl we have all the manpower we need right now. It's a matter of sweating them out. The superintendent is communicating with them, trying to convince those fellows that what they're trying won't work."

The ringleader of the escape attempt was identified as Richard Murry. He told Timpani, "We're ready to go all the way."

Offered Himself

In one of his talks with the convicts, Timpani offered himself in exchange for the hostages, but his offer was rejected. Heyns, helping direct strategy from his headquarters at the state Capitol in Olympia, said, "If the boys begin violence, we will. Meanwhile, we're just standing by."

With Murry, 22, were two inmates identified as Robert Jasmin, 22, and Donald Decourcey, 23. Murry was in for grand larceny from Clark County, Wash. Decourcey, from nearby Everett, Wash., also was serving a term for grand larceny and Jasmin, also of Everett, was doing time for robbery.

The trouble started at about 3 p.m. p.s.t. (7 p.m. e.d.t.), an officer said.

The reformatory usually houses younger convicts and those serving time for lesser crimes. However, crowded conditions at the state penitentiary have made it necessary to place hardened convicts in the Monroe institution.

There are 848 inmates in the institution.

Flaming Car Crash Claims Six Lives

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Two cars crashed and burned in early morning fog Monday, killing six persons—a four-member family returning from a holiday and a father and his son.

Coroner J. Herbert Goyert identified the dead in one car as Robert Stanford, his wife, Dorothy, 28, and their children, Nancy, 1, and Robbie, 3. They lived in Joliet, Ill.

Killed in the other car was Earl U. Jetton, 26, Chicago. His son, Dale, 6, died later in a nearby Paducah, Ky., hospital after being pulled from burning wreckage by passing motorists.

Dixie Development Plan Unveiled By Underwood

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., (AP) — The embryo of an expansive development program for the South was unveiled here Monday by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia.

He said it would "cut not only across state lines, but across academic and professional lines, involving state government and private industry as well as educational institutions."

Underwood said the new program was evolved at the request of Southern Legislators who had noted the success of the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) with smaller scale regional programs in mental health and atomic energy development.

The 10-year-old SREB, of which Underwood is chairman, would be the hub of the new program.

Underwood expressed optimism for the social and economic future of the South. He then put a finger directly on his audience — the 140 delegates attending the first national conference on regional education — and said:

"I know we have the resources. Participating in the conference today, I am sure that we have the men.

"The regional agency is a logical tool for the states, the universities, the professions and industry to use in attacking some of our broad socio-economic problems and opportunities."

Specifically, the young Republican governor cited the Appalachian South, a nine-state area which includes West Virginia.

As a beginning, Underwood said these two activities are under way:

1 — The SREB staff in Atlanta is compiling information on all Southern research already undertaken by universities of the region.

2—The administration of research in Southern college and universities is being surveyed and areas of possible expansion are being noted.

At Least 60 Die In Holiday Boat Accidents

By The Associated Press

At least 60 deaths in boat accidents during the nation's two-day Fourth of July celebration highlighted starkly the perils of boating's popularity boom.

Several of the accidents involved more than one death.

The most costly in life was a collision Saturday of an auto ferry and a cabin cruiser in Lake Michigan off Muskegon, Mich. Six occupants of the smaller craft drowned.

In other fatalities, the craft involved were smaller, several of them homemade, and collisions were rare.

Four died in Efner Lake near Corinth, N.Y., Sunday when a homemade boat with an outboard motor capsized, throwing eight occupants into the water. Six were children, including two who died.

Two men and a 4-year-old boy drowned in Indiana's White River Saturday near Bedford after a rowboat carrying six persons was swamped by the bow wave of a passing houseboat. The child's life jacket was too large, and he floated with his head under water.

A rickety 12-foot, flat - bottom boat with an outboard motor was swamped in Pushaw Lake, Maine. A father and his two daughters died. Another occupant of the boat was rescued by fishermen. The girls weren't wearing life jackets.

Upsets and capsizings weren't the causes of all deaths. Two died and three were hurt in Tennessee when a boat was shattered by explosion and fire.

Man Dies When Car Plunges Into River

SALISBURY (AP) — The body of a man who drowned when a car ran off a ferry landing into Wicomico River was recovered near the scene of the accident Monday.

The victim was identified by State Police as Clay Larmore, 50, of Salisbury.

Police said Larmore was riding with Jack Phillips, 28, of Fruitland, when the vehicle plunged from the ferry slip into about 30 feet of water at Upper Ferry.

The ferry was not in operation at the time and was on the other side of the river.

Police said the body of a dog was found in the car when it was hauled from the stream. The right front door was open and a rear window had been broken.

Phillips reported the accident to police. He said he was unable to find Larmore after he made it safely to shore.

State Censors Lift Movie Ban

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors accepted a Supreme Court decision as a "directive" Monday and licensed without change the showing of "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

The film is scheduled for showing in Baltimore Thursday. The Maryland censors ordered portions of it deleted 2½ years ago and it was not released in the state at that time.

The Supreme Court last Monday ruled unconstitutional the New York movie censorship law under which "Lady Chatterley's Lover" had been banned in that state.

The Supreme Court ruled that movie censors could not delete portions of a film or ban it because it advocated an idea as long as it is not portrayed in an obscene way.

Soviets Charge West Stalls Nuclear Talks

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin charged again Monday that the United States and Britain are deliberately delaying progress in the three-nation talks on a nuclear test ban.

He told the 107th meeting of the conference that the Western powers still have not given a full reply to the Soviet proposal for a quota system of on-site inspections.

This proposal, put forward in April, would set up a definite number of inspections in each country, allowing spot checks of some —but not all—unidentified earth tremors recorded by fixed observation posts.

U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth replied that the two Western powers had repeatedly pressed Tsarapkin for clearer explanations of his proposal.

Blazing Belgian Ship Beached, Abandoned

CAMERON, La. (UPI)—A 9,800-ton Belgian ship, its holds and cargo afire, was beached and abandoned Monday and 38 persons aboard escaped with their lives.

Capt. Henri Sanglier, his wife and 36 crewmen scrambled ashore. Some were barefoot, their clothing in tatters but there were only minor injuries to two seamen. The fire had raged through the tanker-freighter Anvers from stem to stern, and attempts to put it out were given up. Officials said the vessel may burn for a week.

Farmer Spurns Offers For Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N. C. (AP) — Three little triplet sisters, plump and sleeping soundly, went home Monday to their weather-beaten house beside a tobacco field to take up life with their parents who said they refused big money for them.

Linda, Brenda and Glenda Miller, born 10 days ago in a hospital in this old port town, made the 15-mile trip with their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan B. Miller, in his rickety, eight-year-old car.

It was their 55-year-old fatner, a hard-of-hearing tenant farmer, who had indignantly refused to sell his babies into adoption. Miller, a $25-a-week farm laborer, had reported a person who telephoned him by long distance had offered as high as perhaps $50,000 each for the babies.

"I believe he said $50,000 each, but it may have been $5,000," recalled the gaunt, sun - browned field worker. "I may be poor, but nothing would make me part with any of my family for money. I think it was an insult."

Earlier Miller had said he might have to permit adoption of the babies because of his low income.

Just before he started home, hospital authorities told Miller the bill of about $200 had "been taken care of."

Farmer Spurns Offers For Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N. C. (AP) — Three little triplet sisters, plump and sleeping soundly, went home Monday to their weather-beaten house beside a tobacco field to take up life with their parents who said they refused big money for them.

Linda, Brenda and Glenda Miller, born 10 days ago in a hospital in this old port town, made the 15-mile trip with their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan B. Miller, in his rickety, eight-year-old car.

It was their 55-year-old fatner, a hard-of-hearing tenant farmer, who had indignantly refused to sell his babies into adoption. Miller, a $25-a-week farm laborer, had reported a person who telephoned him by long distance had offered as high as perhaps $50,000 each for the babies.

"I believe he said $50,000 each, but it may have been $5,000," recalled the gaunt, sun - browned field worker. "I may be poor, but nothing would make me part with any of my family for money. I think it was an insult."

Earlier Miller had said he might have to permit adoption of the babies because of his low income.

Just before he started home, hospital authorities told Miller the bill of about $200 had "been taken care of."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—I don't know know who Bob Hope is kidding—maybe himself. He sailed aboard the SS United States Thursday for England and a golf vacation in Scotland. Bob says he's also coming back by ship to get a complete rest. Now Robert, we love you, but the schedule you have mapped out for yourself is certainly not any rest.

Besides seven major TV shows next year, he'll make two movies. One of them will be the final "Road" picture with Bing Crosby, which the boys are calling "The Road to Paradise." The other will be "Some Days It's Feathers." This was to have been filmed this summer before Bob's M.D. ordered him to rest.

Marilyn Monroe may not know it but she'll be offered a fortune if she'll work with Bing and Bob in the "Road" epic. She has recovered nicely from her operation which was a minor one.

With Mort Sahl, idol of the iconoclasts, calling off his nightclub tour through the South to sign with Hall Bartlett for "All the Young Men" and staying put in Hollywood—what do you bet he and Phyllis Kirk get around to saying "I do"?

Whether Sahl is your particular cup of tea as a comedian or not, he certainly has pulled himself up even with the top ones and the so-called intellectuals go for him. "All the Young Men," is an explosive war drama Bartlett is shooting with Alan Ladd, Sidney Poitier, Jimmy Darren, and Sahl plays a Yank caught behind the Korean lines. Before starting at Columbia in September, Mort plays a nightclub date in Chicago and a one-man TV show in Toronto.

"Roman Candles" a play by Sidney Sheldon has been bought by Willy Wyler and the Mirisch Brothers for United Artists release. The plan, however, is to take it first to Broadway late this year and later make it into a motion picture.

Willy has his eye on Audrey Hepburn for the star—who hasn't ??? But "Roman Holiday" was one of Audrey's very best pictures and the one that first brought her to movie fame, so it may be that both she and Wyler, who produced the picture, are superstitious over the title.

The nicest way I've ever spent a hot, hot HOT afternoon was at a private fashion show in my own home looking at the gowns designed by Marusia which Eleanor Lambert Berkson will show at the American Exhibit at Moscow's international show in late July. Marusia even brought along a model and my staff and I sat in my playroom oh-ing and ah-ing over the styles.

Marusia has made much use of fur because she explained the Russians have so many furs they can utilize. In her collections was a red wool coat lined with civet fur over a skirt of the same fur; a red satin blouse with a tiny fur hat on the Cossack lines. And a particular honey was a honey-beige coat lined with blended mink. Even some of the cocktail dresses were trimmed in white mink. Many of the New York fashion houses are also sending their best clothes with Miss Lambert.

Water Below Crest

The water level at Lake Gordon was reported as a foot below the crest of the spillway this morning, while the water in Lake Koon was two and a half feet below the spillway crest. Both levels are higher than is customary for this time of year, officials said.

City Council Rejects Bids On Street Improvements

The Mayor and Council yesterday rejected the bids of three firms for improvements on a number of streets in the Mapleside area. The action was taken on the recommendation of John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

In explanation of the recommendation, Nuzum said a study of the bids indicated the lowest offer was approximately three times the cost of similar work being done by the Street Department.

Commissioner Long said a series of engineering studies is being made on 17 streets, including the possibility of constructing blacktop curbing on new street work.

Nuzum amplified this by pointing out that it must be determined if blacktop curbing will withstand wear and tear as well as concrete. It would not be economically feasible to use blacktop construction unless the wearing qualities would approximate concrete curbing, Nuzum said.

Council, also on recommendation of Commissioner Long, referred to Nuzum a proposal for the blacktopping of Maple Alley from Marietta Street to Pearre Avenue. The proposal calls for placing a 15-foot strip of blacktop some 606 feet from Marietta Street to Victoria Street, and the same width from Victoria to Pearre Avenue.

A report on the June activities of the Street Department was submitted by Long. A breakdown of the report showed nine streets were given light-surface treatment during the month.

Council approved the purchase of 35 tons of calcium chloride for use by the Street Department, and authorized Long to advertise for bids on a two-ton truck for the department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech informed Council that a meeting will be held with Rep. John R. Foley on the federal surplus food program. The meeting has been scheduled for Saturday, July 25, in the mayor's office.

Parking Receipts Off

Receipts from the city's parking meters for the week ending June 28 totaled $742.53, according to Harry M. Whisner, meter inspector, who said the amount was $51.22 less than was reported for the previous week.

State Highway Jobs Depending On Federal Aid

Almost half of Maryland's current highway construction program already dragging because of higher costs, hinges upon congressional action on Federal aid, State Roads officials reported yesterday.

Norman M. Pritchett, chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, said the program would be reduced from $85,000,000 to $45,000,000 a year if Congress should fail to agree this summer on a method of financing the Federal interstate system.

Reports from Washington have been increasingly pessimistic, he declared, although there still is a conviction that an interim financing program for fiscal 1961 will be adopted.

Meanwhile, the State has been unable to look far into the future of its major traffic arteries because of uncertainty on the interstate program.

At stake are the State's important segments of the interstate system, including the Northeast expressway, Route 40 in Western Maryland, the Baltimore County beltway and the Washington circumferential.

Uncertainty has mounted on the Federal allocation, even as State highway officials launched exhaustive study aimed at making the most of available funds in a framework of higher costs and more expensive road demands.

A reappraisal of costs for the entire interstate system is now under way and will be presented to Congress in 1961. President Eisenhower and Congressional leaders are at loggerheads over how to keep the program going in the meantime.

Against the Administration's proposal to raise gasoline taxes counter-moves have been made favoring the issuance of revenue bonds, backed by the current gasoline tax rate, and use of general fund money.

Under the current distribution formula, Maryland is entitled to about $56,000,000 a year in interstate funds. The allocation will mean nothing, however, until financing is approved.

Summarizing progress on the State's long-range program, which began in 1954, highway officials yesterday reported authorizations totaling $359,500,000 through April 30.

It was a figure that represented the addition of the interstate program, more elaborate highway demands and the upward spiral in costs since the original program was adopted.

Carl L. Wannen, comptroller for the commission, said the cost figures were broken down roughly at $237,600,000 for construction, $38,000,000 for engineering, $17,200,000 for administration and $66,700,000 for rights-of-way.

The current reappraisal includes analysis of the heavy outlays for purchasing rights-of-way and engineering for projects that now appear to be remote in the highway program.

Water Consumption Up

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday totaled 96,900,000 gallons, according to C. L. Brotemarkle, who said the amount was 3,860,000 gallons more than was recorded for the previous week.

Outdoor Club Plans Picnic

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will sponsor its annual family picnic Sunday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club from 1 until 7 p. m.

Robert Taylor, general chairman, said the affair will be for immediate families of members and members who have paid their application fees.

Persons desiring transportation are asked to telephone PA 2-9772 after 7:30 p. m., and prior to Saturday.

Assisting Taylor will be Edward Belioure, Howard Kuhns, Harry Mills, Walter Oglebay, Lee Fuller, William Seiler, William Wagner, Samuel Brady, Edward McConnell, Joseph Cantone, Andy Jones and Wilbur Combs.

Mrs. William Wagner and Robert Dougherty will be in charge of games for the children. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Twigg and daughters will provide music.

Vermont is the only one of the New England states without a seacoast.

Wilson To Speak To Council Unit

The Cumberland Community Council will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club. William A. Wilson, member of the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County, will speak on "County Government."

The July calendar, listing community activities for the July 4-July 26 period, has been mailed to the affiliated units of the organization.

Mrs. Bruce Douglas, president, said representatives of the 16 affiliated organizations should attend Friday night's meeting.

Nuzum amplified this by pointing out that it must be determined if blacktop curbing will withstand wear and tear as well as concrete. It would not be economically feasible to use blacktop construction unless the wearing qualities would approximate concrete curbing, Nuzum said.

Council, also on recommendation of Commissioner Long, referred to Nuzum a proposal for the blacktopping of Maple Alley from Marietta Street to Pearre Avenue. The proposal calls for placing a 15-foot strip of blacktop some 606 feet from Marietta Street to Victoria Street, and the same width from Victoria to Pearre Avenue.

A report on the June activities of the Street Department was submitted by Long. A breakdown of the report showed nine streets were given light-surface treatment during the month.

Council approved the purchase of 35 tons of calcium chloride for use by the Street Department, and authorized Long to advertise for bids on a two-ton truck for the department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech informed Council that a meeting will be held with Rep. John R. Foley on the federal surplus food program. The meeting has been scheduled for Saturday, July 25, in the mayor's office.

Parking Receipts Off

Receipts from the city's parking meters for the week ending June 28 totaled $742.53, according to Harry M. Whisner, meter inspector, who said the amount was $51.22 less than was reported for the previous week.

State Highway Jobs Depending On Federal Aid

Almost half of Maryland's current highway construction program already dragging because of higher costs, hinges upon congressional action on Federal aid, State Roads officials reported yesterday.

Norman M. Pritchett, chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, said the program would be reduced from $85,000,000 to $45,000,000 a year if Congress should fail to agree this summer on a method of financing the Federal interstate system.

Reports from Washington have been increasingly pessimistic, he declared, although there still is a conviction that an interim financing program for fiscal 1961 will be adopted.

Meanwhile, the State has been unable to look far into the future of its major traffic arteries because of uncertainty on the interstate program.

At stake are the State's important segments of the interstate system, including the Northeast expressway, Route 40 in Western Maryland, the Baltimore County beltway and the Washington circumferential.

Uncertainty has mounted on the Federal allocation, even as State highway officials launched exhaustive study aimed at making the most of available funds in a framework of higher costs and more expensive road demands.

A reappraisal of costs for the entire interstate system is now under way and will be presented to Congress in 1961. President Eisenhower and Congressional leaders are at loggerheads over how to keep the program going in the meantime.

Against the Administration's proposal to raise gasoline taxes counter-moves have been made favoring the issuance of revenue bonds, backed by the current gasoline tax rate, and use of general fund money.

Under the current distribution formula, Maryland is entitled to about $56,000,000 a year in interstate funds. The allocation will mean nothing, however, until financing is approved.

Summarizing progress on the State's long-range program, which began in 1954, highway officials yesterday reported authorizations totaling $359,500,000 through April 30.

It was a figure that represented the addition of the interstate program, more elaborate highway demands and the upward spiral in costs since the original program was adopted.

Carl L. Wannen, comptroller for the commission, said the cost figures were broken down roughly at $237,600,000 for construction, $38,000,000 for engineering, $17,200,000 for administration and $66,700,000 for rights-of-way.

The current reappraisal includes analysis of the heavy outlays for purchasing rights-of-way and engineering for projects that now appear to be remote in the highway program.

Water Consumption Up

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday totaled 96,900,000 gallons, according to C. L. Brotemarkle, who said the amount was 3,860,000 gallons more than was recorded for the previous week.

Outdoor Club Plans Picnic

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will sponsor its annual family picnic Sunday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club from 1 until 7 p. m.

Robert Taylor, general chairman, said the affair will be for immediate families of members and members who have paid their application fees.

Persons desiring transportation are asked to telephone PA 2-9772 after 7:30 p. m., and prior to Saturday.

Assisting Taylor will be Edward Belioure, Howard Kuhns, Harry Mills, Walter Oglebay, Lee Fuller, William Seiler, William Wagner, Samuel Brady, Edward McConnell, Joseph Cantone, Andy Jones and Wilbur Combs.

Mrs. William Wagner and Robert Dougherty will be in charge of games for the children. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Twigg and daughters will provide music.

Vermont is the only one of the New England states without a seacoast.

Wilson To Speak To Council Unit

The Cumberland Community Council will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club. William A. Wilson, member of the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County, will speak on "County Government."

The July calendar, listing community activities for the July 4-July 26 period, has been mailed to the affiliated units of the organization.

Mrs. Bruce Douglas, president, said representatives of the 16 affiliated organizations should attend Friday night's meeting.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Eyebrows Have It!

A perfect brow extends from a point over the inside corner of the eye in a natural curve to a line a little beyond outermost end of the eye socket. According to professional beauty standards, it must also be wide enough and dark enough to balance with the length of the face and the coloring of the skin and hair.

Now take a look in the mirror to see how your own brows measure up to this standard of beauty. If they are too thin or too light, you can learn to fix them in two minutes flat, just by taking the following steps! As with all cosmetic art, the secret lies in practicing the strategem until it looks completely natural. No woman should ever appear in public wearing artifices that are easily detectable!

Here's how to make your eyebrows look perfect: If your brows are light, provide yourself with a very light brown eyebrow pencil, a slightly darker shade of brown mascara and a separate eyebrow brush. No dark, dark brown pencil and black mascara. Now, go to work, first brushing your brows until they stand straight up; then with a quick outward stroke, smooth down the top edges into an even line.

Next, take your pencil and draw the most shadowy line you can manage, following the line of the top edge of your brow but about an eighth of an inch above it. That done, fill in the entire outline of the brow with quick, contiguous, upward strokes starting at the inside edge and working outward. The purpose of the pencil is to color the skin very slightly. Don't expect it to color the hair at all.

Mascara will do that job very well if you are careful to use a damp brush (not wet) with a minimum amount of mascara on it. Stroke each hair upward being careful to color only the hair — not the skin. Let the mascara dry well. Then, using your clean, dry brush, groom the brows upward and finish off with the same outward stroke which you used in the beginning.

Last of all, stand up and about five steps away from a mirror. See if you look like yourself — only better. That's the test of natural-looking make-up!

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

- Pony Tail Baldness
- Adhesions

Note to readers: Thanks for all the nice letters. As many questions as possible will be answered in this column, but for obvious reasons replies must be brief.

Q. "I am 14 and have developed a bald spot on my neck. The spot is quite noticeable when I fix my hair in a pony tail. What could cause this baldness?"—Mary.

A. Your pony tail may be responsible. Persistent and prolonged traction (pull) on scalp hair can produce baldness. Skin doctors often notice this patchy loss of hair in girls who wear pony tails. Try a different hair style and see if this won't help.

Q. "We often hear that science is trying to find a cure for arthritis, cancer, etc. Do scientists ever work on trying to find a cure for adhesions? I have suffered from adhesions for 17 years." — A Canadian reader.

A. Much experimental work has been done in trying to find an answer to this problem. A substance discovered several years ago showed promise in "dissolving" adhesions in laboratory animals but its use in humans is another matter. It can be used in some cases but not in others. Although surgeons are better able to prevent adhesions now than they were in former years, the problem of what to do when they form still looms large. Some people tend to develop adhesions to a greater extent than others. Surgery to loosen the parts that have grown together is considered when there is some interference with organ function. This often helps but the tissue may grow together again, forming more adhesions.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

In recent years, since international bridge competition was resumed, American teams have done considerable traveling on foreign soil. Today's contribution was taken from a match a couple of years back when the United States national champions were touring Europe.

The American team gained considerable ground on this hand. It was a somewhat unfortunate hand from the standpoint of the home team which contracted for a grand slam. On a better day their gallant efforts would have been rewarded. The American North-South pair stopped at six hearts but declarer had to play cautiously to avoid suffering a loss.

South gave some thought to a grand slam after his partner showed two aces but even assuming that the dummy would come down with the king of hearts, a favorable break in both the trump suit and clubs might be required to manage the play, so he settled for a small slam.

The European pair began the bidding in a similar fashion. But when South ascertained that his partner had two aces he found the grand slam venture irresistible. A spade was opened and declarer had no choice but to play the ace and king of clubs. When East showed out on the second round, declarer had to accept a two trick set.

The American South took nothing for granted when he played the hand. A spade was opened which he won with the ace. He took one round of hearts with the ace to determine that no one had five trumps, then cashed the ace of clubs. He now made the safety play of a low club from his hand. West won with the jack but there was no return he could make to defeat the contract. A club could be ruffed with the king of trumps establishing the suit.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Eyebrows Have It!

A perfect brow extends from a point over the inside corner of the eye in a natural curve to a line a little beyond outermost end of the eye socket. According to professional beauty standards, it must also be wide enough and dark enough to balance with the length of the face and the coloring of the skin and hair.

Now take a look in the mirror to see how your own brows measure up to this standard of beauty. If they are too thin or too light, you can learn to fix them in two minutes flat, just by taking the following steps! As with all cosmetic art, the secret lies in practicing the strategem until it looks completely natural. No woman should ever appear in public wearing artifices that are easily detectable!

Here's how to make your eyebrows look perfect: If your brows are light, provide yourself with a very light brown eyebrow pencil, a slightly darker shade of brown mascara and a separate eyebrow brush. No dark, dark brown pencil and black mascara. Now, go to work, first brushing your brows until they stand straight up; then with a quick outward stroke, smooth down the top edges into an even line.

Next, take your pencil and draw the most shadowy line you can manage, following the line of the top edge of your brow but about an eighth of an inch above it. That done, fill in the entire outline of the brow with quick, contiguous, upward strokes starting at the inside edge and working outward. The purpose of the pencil is to color the skin very slightly. Don't expect it to color the hair at all.

Mascara will do that job very well if you are careful to use a damp brush (not wet) with a minimum amount of mascara on it. Stroke each hair upward being careful to color only the hair — not the skin. Let the mascara dry well. Then, using your clean, dry brush, groom the brows upward and finish off with the same outward stroke which you used in the beginning.

Last of all, stand up and about five steps away from a mirror. See if you look like yourself — only better. That's the test of natural-looking make-up!

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge

- Pony Tail Baldness
- Adhesions

Note to readers: Thanks for all the nice letters. As many questions as possible will be answered in this column, but for obvious reasons replies must be brief.

Q. "I am 14 and have developed a bald spot on my neck. The spot is quite noticeable when I fix my hair in a pony tail. What could cause this baldness?"—Mary.

A. Your pony tail may be responsible. Persistent and prolonged traction (pull) on scalp hair can produce baldness. Skin doctors often notice this patchy loss of hair in girls who wear pony tails. Try a different hair style and see if this won't help.

Q. "We often hear that science is trying to find a cure for arthritis, cancer, etc. Do scientists ever work on trying to find a cure for adhesions? I have suffered from adhesions for 17 years." — A Canadian reader.

A. Much experimental work has been done in trying to find an answer to this problem. A substance discovered several years ago showed promise in "dissolving" adhesions in laboratory animals but its use in humans is another matter. It can be used in some cases but not in others. Although surgeons are better able to prevent adhesions now than they were in former years, the problem of what to do when they form still looms large. Some people tend to develop adhesions to a greater extent than others. Surgery to loosen the parts that have grown together is considered when there is some interference with organ function. This often helps but the tissue may grow together again, forming more adhesions.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

In recent years, since international bridge competition was resumed, American teams have done considerable traveling on foreign soil. Today's contribution was taken from a match a couple of years back when the United States national champions were touring Europe.

The American team gained considerable ground on this hand. It was a somewhat unfortunate hand from the standpoint of the home team which contracted for a grand slam. On a better day their gallant efforts would have been rewarded. The American North-South pair stopped at six hearts but declarer had to play cautiously to avoid suffering a loss.

South gave some thought to a grand slam after his partner showed two aces but even assuming that the dummy would come down with the king of hearts, a favorable break in both the trump suit and clubs might be required to manage the play, so he settled for a small slam.

The European pair began the bidding in a similar fashion. But when South ascertained that his partner had two aces he found the grand slam venture irresistible. A spade was opened and declarer had no choice but to play the ace and king of clubs. When East showed out on the second round, declarer had to accept a two trick set.

The American South took nothing for granted when he played the hand. A spade was opened which he won with the ace. He took one round of hearts with the ace to determine that no one had five trumps, then cashed the ace of clubs. He now made the safety play of a low club from his hand. West won with the jack but there was no return he could make to defeat the contract. A club could be ruffed with the king of trumps establishing the suit.

Fifty-three per cent of the world's steel is produced in the United States.

Mrs. P. B. Naylor Heads Garrett Red Cross

OAKLAND — A period of service covering more than 40 years came to a slowdown but not a halt recently when Mrs. E. Z. Tower, of Oakland, announced her retirement as chairman of Garrett County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Meeting with directors of the organization, Mrs. Tower stressed the fact that she is not "resigning" but merely "retiring," and would continue to be active in Red Cross affairs.

Cemetery Poses Problem On Site Of Lake

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Conservation Director Warden M. Lane has been advised to proceed through the Hardy county prosecuting attorney's office in efforts to move graves from a lake site near Wardensville.

What About That Munitions Lobby?

Ugly talk of a "munitions lobby" — the phrase has cropped out twice in recent Presidential press conferences — operating in Washington is going to be brought out into the open by a House Armed Services subcommittee, which opens hearings today. The investigation is billed as a sweeping inquiry into hiring by big defense contractors of ex-Pentagon officials, civilian and military, and of former members of Congress.

The House on June 4 narrowly defeated a rider to the Department of Defense Appropriation bill that would have barred employment by defense contractors of retired generals and admirals for five years after the officers' retirement. But the defeat came only after the present investigation was promised.

Two weeks later, Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) joined in sponsoring a bill to establish "guidelines of conduct" for retired military officers. Sen. Javits, who described the bill as preventive rather than punitive, pointed out that criminal penalties provided for violators of the central provisions are similar to those provided by present conflict-of-interest laws. These prescribe a maximum fine of $10,000 and a year's imprisonment.

Under present law, former federal employes may not prosecute a claim concerning any matter directly related to their government work, for two years after leaving the government. Retired military officers may not for two years make sales to the Army, and another law strips of retirement pay Navy or Marine officers who later sell to the Navy. Javits and Douglas would apply this to retired Army and Air Force officers, and to sales to all three services.

As to the "munitions lobby" charge, Sen. Douglas reports that 721 retired military officers are on the payrolls of 88 of the 100 companies which receive three-quarters of the nation's defense contracts. Although only 11 of the 50 firms with the biggest defense contracts used registered lobbyists in the last fiscal year, it has been pointed out that a "social" lobbyist often is more effective than a registered lobbyist anyway.

Hard To Understand

I received a letter from Mrs. J. Horton Ijams, asking me to contribute to "an all Tchaikowsky Festival" at which the Moscow State Orchestra will play. I do not know Mrs. Ijams but she represents the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, Inc., which is sponsoring this concert.

What the Moscow State Orchestra has to do with Protestantism is very hard to discover. The Moscow State Orchestra is a government institution and cannot suffer a financial loss because it is a completely subsidized organization. Many American symphony orchestras do lack adequate funds and if money is to be contributed, it would be preferable to help our own to keep going. Besides, as the Moscow State Orchestra is a rarity in this country, the house would be sold out without special sponsorship.

The envelope attached to Mrs. Ijams' letter contains the legend:

"I cannot attend, but enclose my contribution of $———"

Therefore this is, in a measure, a money-raising scheme. But I also note that the orchestra "is brought to us by the noted impresario, Sol Hurok, who has just completed the record tour of the Bolshoi Ballet."

Sol Hurok is a successful booking agent who knows how to fill a theater or a music hall with an appreciative audience by the ordinary methods of advertising and ballyhoo. In bringing over the Russians, however, he has a special problem, namely, that he must fill the hall to prove that the whole of the United States waits with bated breath for the Russkies. He therefore hooked up the first appearance of the Bolshoi Ballet with a bunch of organizations. Some were fellow-travellers, some were even reputable. It created a furor but brought the audience. It is a new but interesting gambit.

For the Moscow State Orchestra he runs a benefit and that it is a benefit is apparent from the fact that Mrs. Ijams signs herself, "Chairman, Benefit Committee." It is queer, however, that the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, Inc., sponsors a benefit by an organization owned by an atheistic, pragmatic, materialist government which rejects God, Jesus Christ, Martin Luther, John Calvin and John Knox as opiates for the people.

Of course, Tschaikowsky had nothing to do with either atheism or politics, he being a musician and not a politician and the probability is that those who play piccolos and such in the Moscow State Orchestra are also not politicians. Nevertheless, what has all this to do with Protestantism?

The intellectual difficulty here is that these Protestants do not associate their Protestantism with the anti-Christianity of Marxism, as they do not associate the Soviet government's atheism with its ownership of an orchestra. The human mind is often like that. It skips facts; it avoids connections; it evades consequences. It takes for granted that all human beings are alike in their responses which is literally untrue. I know a businessman who insists that this is the age of the consumer and that all politics, national and international, will depend on consumers' demands. No revolution has yet occurred for that reason.

Why does not the Communist Party of the United States sponsor the Moscow State Orchestra? That would be fitting and proper. Here is a suitable association. This involves the fitness of things. But always there are those who confuse issues.

Many of us speak of our religion. We tell our children to say their prayers. We go to a house of worship. But how many have ever taken the trouble to discover what it all means?

Certainly a partnership between John Calvin and Karl Marx can have no meaning. Either we stand by our way of life, the Judaic-Christian way of life, which receives its sanction from what we regard as the revealed word of God, or we sink into an intellectual neutralism which leaves us without definition. Our confusion arises from our unconscious acceptance of Marxian atheism but our rejection of Marxian economics which stems from it. This confusion leads many to assume that it is possible to be pro-Russian and not pro-Communist; that Russia is a country like Great Britain and France. It is not so. Russia is a movement, a people's force, a religion. It is a form of devil worship. Its acceptance imperils not only our nation but our individual souls.

South Carolina Congressman's Lobbying Efforts Are Stymied

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It looks as if the lobbying efforts of South Carolina's Congressman Mendel Rivers to get $173,000 extra for a northern ship repair company had been largely stymied.

The South Carolina Congressman, as previously reported in this column, has been pressuring Vice Adm. John Will of the Military Sea Transportation Service to get more money paid for the Power Equipment Corporation in Brooklyn, for the overhaul of the USS Randall which operates under MSTS. Admiral Will okayed an additional $104,394 for extra work on the ship after Congressman Rivers telephoned him. On top of this, the Power Equipment Corporation put in an additional demand for $173,150.61.

During the course of pressuring Admiral Will, Congressman Rivers also adopted the tactic of buttering him up. In June 5, he inserted in the Congressional Record the following praise of the admiral:

"'Dutch' Will is synonymous with Military Sea Transportation Service. Think of one and you automatically think of the other. . . His judgment and decisions concerning MSTS have done astonishing things to bring about good will and admiration for the service which for years was thought of by maritime labor and management alike as a federal agency competing against private industry."

Then Rivers subtly praised Will for favoring private contractors.

"This year's fiscal report of MSTS shows a significant statistic, and one which even its harshest critics find difficult to refute. Out of MSTS's entire operating funds — $425 million — 78 per cent went to private industry: ship repair facilities, shipyards, steamship companies, and what have you."

Payment Is Pared Down

If this wasn't enough reminder that the admiral should be kind to private companies like Power Equipment Rivers added: "Whatever segment of private industry has the foresight to grab him (the admiral was then about ready to retire) will be fortunate indeed. . . . The experience of many commands, the mellowness and judgment that comes with this experience, and the insatiable drive to tackle baffling problems are qualifications which most surely will be sought out by the very industry which at first held 'Dutch' Will in suspicion and within a few short years regarded him with great respect."

Then, just in case Admiral Will should retire before passing on the $173,150.61, Rivers added a good word for his successor: "Admiral Will's relief has already been announced to be Vice Adm. Roy A. Gano, an able and gracious gentleman well-known in naval and commercial shipping circles, and a most wise choice to take over the world-wide complexities of the Military Sea Transportation Service. . . ."

However, my energetic associate Jack Anderson upset the Congressman's tactics. He began to bird-dog the story to find out why extra money was being awarded a repair company despite the opposition of subordinates. He was also interested in knowing why the Congressman from South Carolina should help out a Connecticut Yankee working in Brooklyn. Anderson made so many inquiries that I can now report the Navy has refused to give the Power Equipment Corporation the additional $173,150.61. It finally decided to award only $16,000, which is less than one-tenth the amount demanded for alleged "extra work."

Note — Admiral Will has now retired to become president of American Export Lines, a company which received considerable military cargo from MSTS.

Tougher Castro Policy — Secretary of State Herter has decided on a policy of talking back to Fidel Castro when he criticizes the United States. So far, the State Department has pursued a policy of turning the other cheek. But it has now almost given up hope of getting along with Castro. The best way to get Castro to behave sensibly and watch the Communists in his own ranks, it has been decided, is to talk back to him.

Rebuke to Gen. Taylor — Secretary of Defense McElroy delivered a private indirect blast at Gen. Maxwell Taylor just before he retired as Army Chief of Staff. McElroy was furious at General Taylor for sounding off at the National Press Club about his differences over military policy. So, at the recent Quantico meeting of military leaders, McElroy told the nation's top generals and admirals that he wishes "senior people in uniform would air their differences through the proper channels within the Defense Department." It was quite clear he was talking about General Taylor.

Rebuff to de Gaulle — President Gronchi of Italy has flatly rejected a suggestion from President de Gaulle that France, Italy, Greece, Spain and Portugal join together in a Mediterranean bloc and follow common foreign and economic policies under French leadership. The Italian President told de Gaulle this would be a rival to NATO and he planned to keep Italy on the side of NATO and the United States.

Military Plot in Argentina — Central Intelligence agents report that the Argentine high command debated all one night whether to overthrow President Frondizi and replace him with a military junta. They finally decided to abide by constitutional law and pressure Frondizi to reform his government instead of revolting. Some military hotheads, however, still favor a revolution.

Reuther flirts — Walter Reuther has tipped off members of his auto workers that he is not serious about backing Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts, despite their flirtation. Reuther still favors Adlai Stevenson for President. But if Stevenson is knocked out of the Democratic finals, he will throw the support of his powerful Auto Workers Union behind Senator Humphrey of Minnesota.

Strange, Wonderful World Of Modern Science

By Joseph Alsop

FISHER'S ISLAND, N. Y.

IT accepts signals from thermocouples, flow, pressure and other transducers. IT measures these signals, digitizes them and prints their values. A thermocouple reference oven can also be supplied, to permit IT to accommodate three types of inputs, which are automatically linearized over their entire range to within 0.1 per cent of accuracy.

The foregoing specimen of prose is not a visiting Martian's first murderous attack on the English language. These secret sentences do not come, either, from any deep and abstruse work of science.

These sentences were penned on Madison Avenue, in fact, by a hard-selling man in a gray flannel suit. Their publication was paid for with a great corporation's carefully budgeted advertising dollars. The IT of their mad drama is something called a logger-scanner. IT also has pinboard programming. IT can log all variables automatically. And IT can scan off-normal alarm points between logging cycles.

All these remarkable facts are here recorded because it really ought to be news when even advertisements become hermetic and incomprehensible. To be sure, the intended audience of this particular advertisement is rather special. In an increasingly vain effort to keep abreast of our complicated times, this reporter reads "The Scientific American." Catching up on the most recent issues during the holiday weekend, the reporter found the gem of prose quoted above, which was aimed at scientists and technicians with an itch to have their variables automatically logged.

Maybe it is a bit ridiculous, moreover, to be surprised because even the advertising men have begun to speak a secret language. If you have read "The Scientific American" regularly in these last years, there are two things you learn. On the one hand, there is no end to the beauty and surprise of the strange world of modern science. But on the other hand, as the years go by, more and more provinces of this strange world are passing beyond the ken of ordinary men.

The beauty and surprise are the sufficient rewards of the unchained explorer of this strange world. The riddle of an ancient lump of bronze, sea-corroded by more than 20 centuries in the Aegean, is read at last. And from this lump of bronze it is discovered that the old Greeks could also make computers.

Or orphaned monkeys are offered the odd choice between a bleak, wire-made imitation mother with breasts that give real milk, or a milk-less but soft and warm imitation mother made of heated towelling. And so it is discovered that the psychologists have been wrong all along, an infant's love of mother does not derive from the material need for nourishment, but from some deeper need to be cuddled and softly reassured.

Or rockets bear telescopes and spectroscopes aloft, to acquire new data on the inner makeup of the sun that warms our earth. Or other telescopes, soaring in balloons, bring back the somehow cozy news that the sun's gaseous inferno boils with the surface pattern of paraffin heated in a shallow dish. Or someone mingles disassociated cells from mouse embryos and chick embryos. And thus it is learned that despite the most unexpected mixture, cells meant to build kidneys and cells meant to make cartilage will obstinately go on doing their kidney-forming and cartilage-forming duties.

Even to the layman, there is something wonderfully stirring in this unending, painstaking, fantastic exploration of all the many universes we simultaneously inhabit, from the infinitely great universe of the cosmos to the infinitely tiny universe of the life process itself. But to the layman, there is also something genuinely upsetting in the tendency ludicrously illustrated by the advertisement of the logger-scanner — whatever that may be.

It is a tendency which has also caused grave concern among a few wise men of science, like Sir C. P. Snow and Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. It is the tendency of our once united culture to break up into two quite separate cultures.

First, there is the culture of ordinary men, who may learn to read archaic Latin or ancient Chinese, but can hardly hope to read the scientists, writing in their own language. And then, increasingly set apart, there is also the culture of the scientists, who write and think and work for one another, and even have their own advertising copywriters nowadays, with a special hard sell couched in the scientists' jargon.

The separation of the culture would not be so disquieting, if each did not blindly use the other. Left to themselves, the scientists would only use their rockets to explore the cosmos. Left to themselves, the ordinary men could not make intercontinental ballistic missiles, or any of the other instruments we now possess to change the balance of nature itself.

But rather than think any longer about the blind interaction of the two cultures, it is probably better to go swimming.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The long months of talk and little action are drawing to a close for this session of the Congress. There has been a noticeable speed-up in Senate and House action on legislative matters in recent days.

The first Washington heat wave each year has a markedly stimulating effect on pending legislation. Members become conscious of the legislative lag and begin to talk about adjournment and the need for taking action on pressing bills before they go home.

This year is no exception. The first heat wave brought the inevitable adjournment talk, although predictions were gloomy and pointed to a September 15 recess.

Congress seems to be a slow and cumbersome legislative machine, but it can work with lightning speed under proper conditions. Don't be surprised to see important bills whizzing through to passage in the coming weeks. It's happened many times before.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (D), Washington, was asked on a recent television panel show whether he was available for the 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination. He thought a moment, then replied:

"Yes, I'm available. And I know 63 other Senators who are, too."

There are 64 Democrats in the Senate.

New Research On Tricky Fungal Diseases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Fungal diseases of the body resemble bacterial infections. They produce similar symptoms and the invaded tissues may look so much alike that a microscopic examination is needed to determine whether the causative agent is a germ or a mold.

The differences are more apparent when it comes to treatment. The popular antibiotics, such as penicillin, do not kill fungi as they do bacteria. On the other hand, the big guns of research are beginning to produce remedies that may revolutionize the treatment of fungal diseases.

Last month we mentioned a tablet that helps ringworm of the skin and nails. Another advance appeared in the form of Fungizone (amphotericin B), the latest and most promising product for the treatment of internal fungal diseases. It should prove a boon for those living and traveling in the semi-arid regions of the southwest where coccidioidomycosis (kok-sid-i-oy'do-miko'sis) is common. With a name like that, no wonder it is called desert disease.

This disorder is acquired by inhaling the causative mold during the dry seasons, especially after dust storms. The fungus grows in soil during the rainy season and lies dormant during the remaining months until inhaled by a prospective customer. Lesions of the chest develop that mimic pulmonary tuberculosis.

Many victims are sent to a tuberculosis sanitarium only to be released a week later when the true diagnosis is uncovered. Although most cases of desert fever are mild and cause no symptoms, the fungus is capable of spreading. It may produce destructive lesions of the lymph nodes, spleen, liver, bones, kidneys and brain.

The majority of the internal and generalized infections have names that are equally as bad as coccidioidomycosis. The list includes histoplanmosis, actinomycosis, blastomycosis, and cryptomycosis.

Considerable time will be needed to evaluate amphotericin B because fungal diseases tend to run an erratic course.

Tomorrow: Sleep activity.

BREATHLESS

D. F. writes: I am 52 and when I walk I get winded and have to stop. Do you think an attack of pneumonia I had 20 years ago could be responsible for my shortness of breath?

REPLY

This is unlikely, since complete healing usually occurs after an attack of pneumonia. The causes of this symptom are among the easiest for physicians to detect. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on shortness of breath.

GASTRECTOMY

F. C. writes: Can a person return to his office job when he recovers from an operation in which two-thirds of the stomach was removed because of ulcer?

REPLY

Yes. This operation is designed to restore health. Following recovery, the majority of individuals are able to return to their regular job.

CITRIC GOOSE PIMPLES

D. F. writes: Drinking orange, lemon or grapefruit juice gives me goose pimples. Is this an allergy or an idiosyncrasy?

REPLY

It is more likely to be an idiosyncrasy as goose pimples is not a typical manifestation of allergy.

FORMULA DIFFERS

L. R. writes: Are cortisone and hydrocortisone the same?

REPLY

No. They are closely related hormones with different chemical structures.

TULAREMIA

E. D. writes: How long does rabbit fever last?

REPLY

Usually about three weeks, followed by a slow convalescence. The antibiotics are effective in this disease and one attack seems to confer immunity.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An outraged bear in the Yellowstone Park area has taken to writing letters of complaint to newspaper syndicated columnists. Washington, he says, has paid no attention to his demands for simple justice. Virtually every day, says this bruin, some confounded little girl with long golden hair breaks into his little home, eats the bear's porridge, and takes a nap in his freshly made bed!

An inquisitive student phoned the Manischewitz bakery and asked, "Can you give me a precise definition of what a matzoth is?"

"I don't know exactly what it is," replied the girl at the switchboard, "but it sure is my bread and butter."

A couple of tramps sat on a bench in Central Park while the sun slowly set. "Have you eaten?" asked the first tramp wistfully.

"Ah, yes," answered the other with a sigh. "Quite often!"

First term prodigy was asked to name three different kinds of cow. Her prompt reply: "Jersey, Guernsey, and Contented."

The Russian Mind

By Leslie Gould

The Russians are making a lot of headlines around these parts, what with a "culture, technology, and science" exhibition, and a Moscow version of a wide-screen travalogue.

Interesting as these are — although not revealing as to the true living conditions behind the Iron Curtain — they make no change in the overall picture.

The smiles being exhibited fail to hide this fact:

Russia is a police state, run by a ruthless group of men who put little or no value on human life.

This has been demonstrated time and again, but most recently in Hungary and in Tibet.

The Soviets have one unchanging goal — destruction of the United States as a world power, and eventual take-over of this country and the rest of the Western World by communism.

Every move the Soviets make has one aim — final victory of communism. It is an international subversive movement.

The Communists believe time is on their side in this contest. The seeds of communism, they are convinced, are firmly planted here and in the other countries outside the Iron Curtain.

All they have to do, so they reason, is to divide the capitalist countries, turn one against the other, and thus upset any military and economic balance of power.

They are betting no an economic collapse here which would have world-wide repercussions. They have been making that bet every year since they started showing their true colors right after the close of World War II.

They have been sadly disappointed, and the world being what it is today, any economic troubles here will be more than matched behind the Iron Curtain. In fact, they are having some problems, and the Russian partners, the Red Chinese, even more so.

A tipoff of the Russian mind — executive department, that is — was a visit in April this reporter and his wife had in Moscow with the "American editor" of Pravda, the party's newspaper, a Mr. Kremenov, who spoke perfect English.

The interview was arranged by In-tourist — which handles all visitors, even ex-Gov. Harriman —to obtain some official information on actual working conditions and details on wages, hours, etc.

Kremenov said unfortunately he could give no information on Russia. He wasn't too familiar about these things, but he volunteered he could tell us anything we wanted to know about the U.S. He was an expert on the subject, so he said.

We commented that we knew that subject very well ourselves, and added that he was being "overly modest."

Then he significantly, or maybe hopefully, said:

"I am watching closely your unemployment situation. It is serious."

With that, he opened his desk drawer and there was the latest issue of Newsweek.

If he is continuing his reading, he must be a sadly disappointed observer. Business is booming. Unemployment has been substantially reduced. The stock market is at an all time high.

The South Carolina Congressman, as previously reported in this column, has been pressuring Vice Adm. John Will of the Military Sea Transportation Service to get more money paid for the Power Equipment Corporation in Brooklyn, for the overhaul of the USS Randall which operates under MSTS. Admiral Will okayed an additional $104,394 for extra work on the ship after Congressman Rivers telephoned him. On top of this, the Power Equipment Corporation put in an additional demand for $173,150.61.

During the course of pressuring Admiral Will, Congressman Rivers also adopted the tactic of buttering him up. In June 5, he inserted in the Congressional Record the following praise of the admiral:

"'Dutch' Will is synonymous with Military Sea Transportation Service. Think of one and you automatically think of the other. . . His judgment and decisions concerning MSTS have done astonishing things to bring about good will and admiration for the service which for years was thought of by maritime labor and management alike as a federal agency competing against private industry."

Then Rivers subtly praised Will for favoring private contractors.

"This year's fiscal report of MSTS shows a significant statistic, and one which even its harshest critics find difficult to refute. Out of MSTS's entire operating funds — $425 million — 78 per cent went to private industry: ship repair facilities, shipyards, steamship companies, and what have you."

Payment Is Pared Down

If this wasn't enough reminder that the admiral should be kind to private companies like Power Equipment Rivers added: "Whatever segment of private industry has the foresight to grab him (the admiral was then about ready to retire) will be fortunate indeed. . . . The experience of many commands, the mellowness and judgment that comes with this experience, and the insatiable drive to tackle baffling problems are qualifications which most surely will be sought out by the very industry which at first held 'Dutch' Will in suspicion and within a few short years regarded him with great respect."

Then, just in case Admiral Will should retire before passing on the $173,150.61, Rivers added a good word for his successor: "Admiral Will's relief has already been announced to be Vice Adm. Roy A. Gano, an able and gracious gentleman well-known in naval and commercial shipping circles, and a most wise choice to take over the world-wide complexities of the Military Sea Transportation Service. . . ."

However, my energetic associate Jack Anderson upset the Congressman's tactics. He began to bird-dog the story to find out why extra money was being awarded a repair company despite the opposition of subordinates. He was also interested in knowing why the Congressman from South Carolina should help out a Connecticut Yankee working in Brooklyn. Anderson made so many inquiries that I can now report the Navy has refused to give the Power Equipment Corporation the additional $173,150.61. It finally decided to award only $16,000, which is less than one-tenth the amount demanded for alleged "extra work."

Note — Admiral Will has now retired to become president of American Export Lines, a company which received considerable military cargo from MSTS.

Capital News Capsules

Tougher Castro Policy — Secretary of State Herter has decided on a policy of talking back to Fidel Castro when he criticizes the United States. So far, the State Department has pursued a policy of turning the other cheek. But it has now almost given up hope of getting along with Castro. The best way to get Castro to behave sensibly and watch the Communists in his own ranks, it has been decided, is to talk back to him.

Rebuke to Gen. Taylor — Secretary of Defense McElroy delivered a private indirect blast at Gen. Maxwell Taylor just before he retired as Army Chief of Staff. McElroy was furious at General Taylor for sounding off at the National Press Club about his differences over military policy. So, at the recent Quantico meeting of military leaders, McElroy told the nation's top generals and admirals that he wishes "senior people in uniform would air their differences through the proper channels within the Defense Department." It was quite clear he was talking about General Taylor.

Rebuff to de Gaulle — President Gronchi of Italy has flatly rejected a suggestion from President de Gaulle that France, Italy, Greece, Spain and Portugal join together in a Mediterranean bloc and follow common foreign and economic policies under French leadership. The Italian President told de Gaulle this would be a rival to NATO and he planned to keep Italy on the side of NATO and the United States.

Military Plot in Argentina — Central Intelligence agents report that the Argentine high command debated all one night whether to overthrow President Frondizi and replace him with a military junta. They finally decided to abide by constitutional law and pressure Frondizi to reform his government instead of revolting. Some military hotheads, however, still favor a revolution.

Reuther flirts — Walter Reuther has tipped off members of his auto workers that he is not serious about backing Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts, despite their flirtation. Reuther still favors Adlai Stevenson for President. But if Stevenson is knocked out of the Democratic finals, he will throw the support of his powerful Auto Workers Union behind Senator Humphrey of Minnesota.

Strange, Wonderful World Of Modern Science

By Joseph Alsop

FISHER'S ISLAND, N. Y.

IT accepts signals from thermocouples, flow, pressure and other transducers. IT measures these signals, digitizes them and prints their values. A thermocouple reference oven can also be supplied, to permit IT to accommodate three types of inputs, which are automatically linearized over their entire range to within 0.1 per cent of accuracy.

The foregoing specimen of prose is not a visiting Martian's first murderous attack on the English language. These secret sentences do not come, either, from any deep and abstruse work of science.

These sentences were penned on Madison Avenue, in fact, by a hard-selling man in a gray flannel suit. Their publication was paid for with a great corporation's carefully budgeted advertising dollars. The IT of their mad drama is something called a logger-scanner. IT also has pinboard programming. IT can log all variables automatically. And IT can scan off-normal alarm points between logging cycles.

All these remarkable facts are here recorded because it really ought to be news when even advertisements become hermetic and incomprehensible. To be sure, the intended audience of this particular advertisement is rather special. In an increasingly vain effort to keep abreast of our complicated times, this reporter reads "The Scientific American." Catching up on the most recent issues during the holiday weekend, the reporter found the gem of prose quoted above, which was aimed at scientists and technicians with an itch to have their variables automatically logged.

Maybe it is a bit ridiculous, moreover, to be surprised because even the advertising men have begun to speak a secret language. If you have read "The Scientific American" regularly in these last years, there are two things you learn. On the one hand, there is no end to the beauty and surprise of the strange world of modern science. But on the other hand, as the years go by, more and more provinces of this strange world are passing beyond the ken of ordinary men.

The beauty and surprise are the sufficient rewards of the unchained explorer of this strange world. The riddle of an ancient lump of bronze, sea-corroded by more than 20 centuries in the Aegean, is read at last. And from this lump of bronze it is discovered that the old Greeks could also make computers.

Or orphaned monkeys are offered the odd choice between a bleak, wire-made imitation mother with breasts that give real milk, or a milk-less but soft and warm imitation mother made of heated towelling. And so it is discovered that the psychologists have been wrong all along, an infant's love of mother does not derive from the material need for nourishment, but from some deeper need to be cuddled and softly reassured.

Or rockets bear telescopes and spectroscopes aloft, to acquire new data on the inner makeup of the sun that warms our earth. Or other telescopes, soaring in balloons, bring back the somehow cozy news that the sun's gaseous inferno boils with the surface pattern of paraffin heated in a shallow dish. Or someone mingles disassociated cells from mouse embryos and chick embryos. And thus it is learned that despite the most unexpected mixture, cells meant to build kidneys and cells meant to make cartilage will obstinately go on doing their kidney-forming and cartilage-forming duties.

Even to the layman, there is something wonderfully stirring in this unending, painstaking, fantastic exploration of all the many universes we simultaneously inhabit, from the infinitely great universe of the cosmos to the infinitely tiny universe of the life process itself. But to the layman, there is also something genuinely upsetting in the tendency ludicrously illustrated by the advertisement of the logger-scanner — whatever that may be.

It is a tendency which has also caused grave concern among a few wise men of science, like Sir C. P. Snow and Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. It is the tendency of our once united culture to break up into two quite separate cultures.

First, there is the culture of ordinary men, who may learn to read archaic Latin or ancient Chinese, but can hardly hope to read the scientists, writing in their own language. And then, increasingly set apart, there is also the culture of the scientists, who write and think and work for one another, and even have their own advertising copywriters nowadays, with a special hard sell couched in the scientists' jargon.

The separation of the culture would not be so disquieting, if each did not blindly use the other. Left to themselves, the scientists would only use their rockets to explore the cosmos. Left to themselves, the ordinary men could not make intercontinental ballistic missiles, or any of the other instruments we now possess to change the balance of nature itself.

But rather than think any longer about the blind interaction of the two cultures, it is probably better to go swimming.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The long months of talk and little action are drawing to a close for this session of the Congress. There has been a noticeable speed-up in Senate and House action on legislative matters in recent days.

The first Washington heat wave each year has a markedly stimulating effect on pending legislation. Members become conscious of the legislative lag and begin to talk about adjournment and the need for taking action on pressing bills before they go home.

This year is no exception. The first heat wave brought the inevitable adjournment talk, although predictions were gloomy and pointed to a September 15 recess.

Congress seems to be a slow and cumbersome legislative machine, but it can work with lightning speed under proper conditions. Don't be surprised to see important bills whizzing through to passage in the coming weeks. It's happened many times before.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (D), Washington, was asked on a recent television panel show whether he was available for the 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination. He thought a moment, then replied:

"Yes, I'm available. And I know 63 other Senators who are, too."

There are 64 Democrats in the Senate.

The Russian Mind

By Leslie Gould

The Russians are making a lot of headlines around these parts, what with a "culture, technology, and science" exhibition, and a Moscow version of a wide-screen travalogue.

Interesting as these are — although not revealing as to the true living conditions behind the Iron Curtain — they make no change in the overall picture.

Russia is a police state, run by a ruthless group of men who put little or no value on human life.

This has been demonstrated time and again, but most recently in Hungary and in Tibet.

The Soviets have one unchanging goal — destruction of the United States as a world power, and eventual take-over of this country and the rest of the Western World by communism.

Every move the Soviets make has one aim — final victory of communism. It is an international subversive movement.

The Communists believe time is on their side in this contest. The seeds of communism, they are convinced, are firmly planted here and in the other countries outside the Iron Curtain.

All they have to do, so they reason, is to divide the capitalist countries, turn one against the other, and thus upset any military and economic balance of power.

They are betting no an economic collapse here which would have world-wide repercussions. They have been making that bet every year since they started showing their true colors right after the close of World War II.

They have been sadly disappointed, and the world being what it is today, any economic troubles here will be more than matched behind the Iron Curtain. In fact, they are having some problems, and the Russian partners, the Red Chinese, even more so.

A tipoff of the Russian mind — executive department, that is — was a visit in April this reporter and his wife had in Moscow with the "American editor" of Pravda, the party's newspaper, a Mr. Kremenov, who spoke perfect English.

The interview was arranged by In-tourist — which handles all visitors, even ex-Gov. Harriman —to obtain some official information on actual working conditions and details on wages, hours, etc.

Kremenov said unfortunately he could give no information on Russia. He wasn't too familiar about these things, but he volunteered he could tell us anything we wanted to know about the U.S. He was an expert on the subject, so he said.

We commented that we knew that subject very well ourselves, and added that he was being "overly modest."

Then he significantly, or maybe hopefully, said:

"I am watching closely your unemployment situation. It is serious."

With that, he opened his desk drawer and there was the latest issue of Newsweek.

If he is continuing his reading, he must be a sadly disappointed observer. Business is booming. Unemployment has been substantially reduced. The stock market is at an all time high.

New Research On Tricky Fungal Diseases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Fungal diseases of the body resemble bacterial infections. They produce similar symptoms and the invaded tissues may look so much alike that a microscopic examination is needed to determine whether the causative agent is a germ or a mold.

The differences are more apparent when it comes to treatment. The popular antibiotics, such as penicillin, do not kill fungi as they do bacteria. On the other hand, the big guns of research are beginning to produce remedies that may revolutionize the treatment of fungal diseases.

Last month we mentioned a tablet that helps ringworm of the skin and nails. Another advance appeared in the form of Fungizone (amphotericin B), the latest and most promising product for the treatment of internal fungal diseases. It should prove a boon for those living and traveling in the semi-arid regions of the southwest where coccidioidomycosis (kok-sid-i-oy'do-miko'sis) is common. With a name like that, no wonder it is called desert disease.

This disorder is acquired by inhaling the causative mold during the dry seasons, especially after dust storms. The fungus grows in soil during the rainy season and lies dormant during the remaining months until inhaled by a prospective customer. Lesions of the chest develop that mimic pulmonary tuberculosis.

Many victims are sent to a tuberculosis sanitarium only to be released a week later when the true diagnosis is uncovered. Although most cases of desert fever are mild and cause no symptoms, the fungus is capable of spreading. It may produce destructive lesions of the lymph nodes, spleen, liver, bones, kidneys and brain.

The majority of the internal and generalized infections have names that are equally as bad as coccidioidomycosis. The list includes histoplanmosis, actinomycosis, blastomycosis, and cryptomycosis.

Considerable time will be needed to evaluate amphotericin B because fungal diseases tend to run an erratic course.

Tomorrow: Sleep activity.

BREATHLESS

D. F. writes: I am 52 and when I walk I get winded and have to stop. Do you think an attack of pneumonia I had 20 years ago could be responsible for my shortness of breath?

REPLY

This is unlikely, since complete healing usually occurs after an attack of pneumonia. The causes of this symptom are among the easiest for physicians to detect. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on shortness of breath.

GASTRECTOMY

F. C. writes: Can a person return to his office job when he recovers from an operation in which two-thirds of the stomach was removed because of ulcer?

REPLY

Yes. This operation is designed to restore health. Following recovery, the majority of individuals are able to return to their regular job.

CITRIC GOOSE PIMPLES

D. F. writes: Drinking orange, lemon or grapefruit juice gives me goose pimples. Is this an allergy or an idiosyncrasy?

REPLY

It is more likely to be an idiosyncrasy as goose pimples is not a typical manifestation of allergy.

FORMULA DIFFERS

L. R. writes: Are cortisone and hydrocortisone the same?

REPLY

No. They are closely related hormones with different chemical structures.

TULAREMIA

E. D. writes: How long does rabbit fever last?

REPLY

Usually about three weeks, followed by a slow convalescence. The antibiotics are effective in this disease and one attack seems to confer immunity.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

An outraged bear in the Yellowstone Park area has taken to writing letters of complaint to newspaper syndicated columnists. "I don't know exactly what it is," replied the girl at the switchboard, "but it sure is my bread and butter."

35,000 To See Major All-Stars Clash At Forbes Field Today

Drysdale And Wynn To Start; Nixon Will Attend Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League is a slight favorite in the game scheduled to start at noon (EST) with network (NBC) radio and television coverage. The American League holds a 15-10 edge in the series and has won the last two games.

Vice President Richard Nixon will be among the 35,000 spectators who will jam picturesque, 50-year-old Forbes Field to capacity.

Although some scattered thundershowers were scheduled during the night, it was supposed to be sunny and pleasant Tuesday with the temperature in the 80s.

Casey Pulls Switch

Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees said he had switched from Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm to Wynn after he learned the Orioles' knuckle ball pitcher had worked six innings Sunday.

"Old Case" had this to say about Wynn: "He is an experienced pitcher who has won 20 games a number of years in his career. He has been pretty good against us (Yanks) and those big names won't scare him." It will be Wynn's fifth All-Star appearance but first start. He won in relief last year.

Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves said it had been a tossup between the 22-year-old Drysdale (9-6), a fast ball pitcher with a deceptive side arm delivery, and his own Lew Burdette (11-8).

Burdette To Follow Don

"Drysdale will have had three days of rest to go three innings," he said. "If I pitched Burdette they would think I was favoring my own players so I decided to go with Drysdale."

Haney said he planned to use Burdette as his second pitcher and would have Pittsburgh's Roy Face ready for action at any time.

Stengel wouldn't name any second pitcher after Wynn (11-5) but it seemed that Wilhelm (9-4) was sure to see action if he felt ready for work.

"And my man (Ryne Duren) will be in there some time," said Stengel.

The only question in the starting lineups had been Al Kaline, Detroit's center fielder. Kaline underwent corrective surgery last week for a cheekbone fractured June 18. He hasn't played in a week but relayed word to Stengel that he was having the stitches removed Monday and definitely wanted to play.

Mickey Mantle, the center fielder behind Kaline in the players' vote, didn't play Sunday because of leg trouble but he told his manager he wanted to get into the game.

Both batting orders presented a problem with so many home run hitters (a total of 122 on each starting side, exclusive of pitchers). The cleanup spots went to San Francisco's Willie Mays, the National's center fielder, and first baseman Bill Skowron of the Yankees. Catcher Del Crandall of Milwaukee was way down in the No. 8 spot for the National despite 12 home runs and Harmon Killebrew, Washington's sensational third baseman who leads the majors with 28 homers, was batting No. 7 for the American.

Aaron Bats Third

Right fielder Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, leading both leagues at .370, was batting third behind second baseman Johnny Temple of Cincinnati and third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee, the league home run leader with 25. Shortstop Ernie Banks, whose 76 RBI's lead both majors, was behind Mays in the No. 5 hole, followed by first baseman Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, left fielder Wally Moon of Los Angeles, Crandall and Drysdale. Only Mathews and Moon bat left handed.

The proceeds of this game go to the player pension fund along with 60 per cent of the radio and television cash.

Just in case the weather turns bad, there are all sorts of postponement dates for Tuesday's game. It could be staged at night, 7 p.m. (EST), Wednesday morning (9:30 a.m. EST) or noon (EST).

All the starters have to play three innings except the pitchers. No pitcher can pitch more than three innings unless the game goes into extra innings. A fraction of an inning on relief does not count.

Betsy Rawls Wins Title

Beats Patty Berg By Single Stroke

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Betsy Rawls, a Phi Beta Kappa who majors in winning golf tournaments hung on grimly Monday to take the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. title by a single stroke.

The 31-year-old onetime physics student shot a one-over-par 75 on the hilly Sheraton Country Club course for a 72-hole total of 288 that edged by one stroke rallying Patty Berg of West Chicago, Ill.

Louise Suggs of Cincinnati also closed fast to grab third place wiht 290 for the four-day event.

Miss Rawls' victory kept intact a young tradition of no winnerever repeating for the ladies pro title. Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., last year's LPGA and current Open champion, finished seventh with 296.

The new champ from Spartanburg, S.C., went into Monday's play with a seemingly comfortable four-stroke lead over runnerup Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, who eventually wound up in fourth position.

But Miss Rawls ran into a peck of trouble with her irons, and she had to birdie the 18th to slip in ahead of Miss Berg for $1,247.35 in top price money.

A bogie five on the 17th hole where she missed a putt by two inches cost Miss Berg a championship tie. The runnerup shot a four-under-par 70, while Miss Suggs in third place finished with a 71.

The victory kept Miss Rawis on top of the money heap for gal golfers this year, raising her season total winnings to $12,528.

Turns Down Appeal

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Warren Giles of the National League turned down an appeal Monday night by manager Solly Hemus and coach Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals from their suspension and fines growing out of a run-in with umpires in a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers on July 2.

Hemus was suspended for five days and fined $250 for his part in the dispute while Walker was suspended two days and fined $100.

Lefty Wayne Howell notched win No. 6 as Ellerslie took the measure of Cresaptown in a 9-7 contest at Cresaptown.

35,000 To See Major All-Stars Clash At Forbes Field Today

Drysdale And Wynn To Start; Nixon Will Attend Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League is a slight favorite in the game scheduled to start at noon (EST) with network (NBC) radio and television coverage. The American League holds a 15-10 edge in the series and has won the last two games.

Vice President Richard Nixon will be among the 35,000 spectators who will jam picturesque, 50-year-old Forbes Field to capacity.

Although some scattered thundershowers were scheduled during the night, it was supposed to be sunny and pleasant Tuesday with the temperature in the 80s.

Casey Pulls Switch

Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees said he had switched from Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm to Wynn after he learned the Orioles' knuckle ball pitcher had worked six innings Sunday.

"Old Case" had this to say about Wynn: "He is an experienced pitcher who has won 20 games a number of years in his career. He has been pretty good against us (Yanks) and those big names won't scare him." It will be Wynn's fifth All-Star appearance but first start. He won in relief last year.

Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves said it had been a tossup between the 22-year-old Drysdale (9-6), a fast ball pitcher with a deceptive side arm delivery, and his own Lew Burdette (11-8).

Burdette To Follow Don

"Drysdale will have had three days of rest to go three innings," he said. "If I pitched Burdette they would think I was favoring my own players so I decided to go with Drysdale."

Haney said he planned to use Burdette as his second pitcher and would have Pittsburgh's Roy Face ready for action at any time.

Stengel wouldn't name any second pitcher after Wynn (11-5) but it seemed that Wilhelm (9-4) was sure to see action if he felt ready for work.

"And my man (Ryne Duren) will be in there some time," said Stengel.

The only question in the starting lineups had been Al Kaline, Detroit's center fielder. Kaline underwent corrective surgery last week for a cheekbone fractured June 18. He hasn't played in a week but relayed word to Stengel that he was having the stitches removed Monday and definitely wanted to play.

Mickey Mantle, the center fielder behind Kaline in the players' vote, didn't play Sunday because of leg trouble but he told his manager he wanted to get into the game.

Both batting orders presented a problem with so many home run hitters (a total of 122 on each starting side, exclusive of pitchers). The cleanup spots went to San Francisco's Willie Mays, the National's center fielder, and first baseman Bill Skowron of the Yankees. Catcher Del Crandall of Milwaukee was way down in the No. 8 spot for the National despite 12 home runs and Harmon Killebrew, Washington's sensational third baseman who leads the majors with 28 homers, was batting No. 7 for the American.

Aaron Bats Third

Right fielder Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, leading both leagues at .370, was batting third behind second baseman Johnny Temple of Cincinnati and third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee, the league home run leader with 25. Shortstop Ernie Banks, whose 76 RBI's lead both majors, was behind Mays in the No. 5 hole, followed by first baseman Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, left fielder Wally Moon of Los Angeles, Crandall and Drysdale. Only Mathews and Moon bat left handed.

The proceeds of this game go to the player pension fund along with 60 per cent of the radio and television cash.

Just in case the weather turns bad, there are all sorts of postponement dates for Tuesday's game. It could be staged at night, 7 p.m. (EST), Wednesday morning (9:30 a.m. EST) or noon (EST).

All the starters have to play three innings except the pitchers. No pitcher can pitch more than three innings unless the game goes into extra innings. A fraction of an inning on relief does not count.

Betsy Rawls Wins Title

Beats Patty Berg By Single Stroke

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Betsy Rawls, a Phi Beta Kappa who majors in winning golf tournaments hung on grimly Monday to take the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. title by a single stroke.

The 31-year-old onetime physics student shot a one-over-par 75 on the hilly Sheraton Country Club course for a 72-hole total of 288 that edged by one stroke rallying Patty Berg of West Chicago, Ill.

Louise Suggs of Cincinnati also closed fast to grab third place wiht 290 for the four-day event.

Miss Rawls' victory kept intact a young tradition of no winnerever repeating for the ladies pro title. Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., last year's LPGA and current Open champion, finished seventh with 296.

The new champ from Spartanburg, S.C., went into Monday's play with a seemingly comfortable four-stroke lead over runnerup Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, who eventually wound up in fourth position.

But Miss Rawls ran into a peck of trouble with her irons, and she had to birdie the 18th to slip in ahead of Miss Berg for $1,247.35 in top price money.

A bogie five on the 17th hole where she missed a putt by two inches cost Miss Berg a championship tie. The runnerup shot a four-under-par 70, while Miss Suggs in third place finished with a 71.

The victory kept Miss Rawls on top of the money heap for gal golfers this year, raising her season total winnings to $12,528.

Turns Down Appeal

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Warren Giles of the National League turned down an appeal Monday night by manager Solly Hemus and coach Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals from their suspension and fines growing out of a run-in with umpires in a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers on July 2.

Hemus was suspended for five days and fined $250 for his part in the dispute while Walker was suspended two days and fined $100.

"Eck" Miers Named Coach At Petersburg

Viking Tutor Moves From Front Royal

Former Kevserite Coached Virginia Teams Eight Years

Estle "Eck" Miers, 49, onetime Keyser High School, Potomac State and Shepherd College athlete, and head coach of football at Warren County High School, Front Royal, Va., for the past eight years, has been appointed football and baseball coach at Petersburg (W.Va.) High School.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by A. Neil Frye, superintendent of schools of Grant County, following the regular session of the school board.

Miers succeeds William "Honey" Crites who resigned at the close of the 1959 baseball season. Carroll Michael will be the head basketball coach at the Grant County school.

Miers starred in football and basketball at Keyser High School and later played at Potomac State College (1929-30), Shepherd College (1949-51) and served as coach at Shenendoah College, Dayton, Va., before taking over the post of grid and cage mentor at Front Royal. His Warren County Wildcats of 1956 posted a 10-0 record and one of their victories was over Fort Hill High School's gridders, 20-14.

"Eck" is a brother of William A. "Huck" Miers, basketball coach at Piedmont High School. Another brother, Harold "Peewee" Miers, former Keyser High and Shenandoah College athlete, now resides at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Petersburg's new grid and baseball mentor is also a well known football and basketball official and at one time he was a professional boxer. "Eck's" son, Kenneth, a graduate of Front Royal High School, played freshman basketball at Potomac State College last season.

NAMED PETERSBURG COACH — Estle "Eck" Miers, above, formerly of Keyser, last night was appointed football and baseball coach at Petersburg High School by the Grant County Board of Education. Craig, Obscure Rider, Has Over 2,000 Winners

At Detroit race track last week a jockey who rarely makes headlines, and those only locally, accomplished a feat heretofore recorded by only 13 other riders whose names are readily recognizable to racing fans the country over; Howard Craig racked up his 2,001st winner.

The 30-year-old native of Springfield, Ohio, campaigns for the most part on what might be termed "class B" tracks, rarely rides in the winter and has never ridden the winner of a stakes race worth more than $15,000. Howard Craig rode his first winner 12 years ago, in 1948 at Old Woodbine. He gained brief national attention in 1951 when, at Waterford Park on July 2, he rode the last six winners on the program and made it 8 winners in a row by scoring in the first two races the next day.

Craig's agent, Cliff Sandusky, has been with him since 1949. His best year in point of winners was 1951 when he wound up third on the national list with 243. His biggest money year was 1958 when his 190 winners earned $467,305. His 2,001st winner was his 82nd of the current season. His lifetime totals through June 25: 11,401 mounts, 2,001 winners; 1,670 times second; 1,390 times third; $3,521,777 earned by his mounts.

Durelle And Moore Bout Set July 29

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Athletic Commission Monday approved a two-week postponement in the light heavyweight title bout between Champion Archie Moore and Canada's Yvon Durelle.

Moore last week requested the postponement to July 29 from July 15 when he bruised his left heel while doing roadwork. He was examined Monday by athletic commission doctors and later the commission announced its approval of the postponement.

Craig, Obscure Rider, Has Over 2,000 Winners

At Detroit race track last week a jockey who rarely makes headlines, and those only locally, accomplished a feat heretofore recorded by only 13 other riders whose names are readily recognizable to racing fans the country over; Howard Craig racked up his 2,001st winner.

The 30-year-old native of Springfield, Ohio, campaigns for the most part on what might be termed "class B" tracks, rarely rides in the winter and has never ridden the winner of a stakes race worth more than $15,000. Howard Craig rode his first winner 12 years ago, in 1948 at Old Woodbine. He gained brief national attention in 1951 when, at Waterford Park on July 2, he rode the last six winners on the program and made it 8 winners in a row by scoring in the first two races the next day.

Craig's agent, Cliff Sandusky, has been with him since 1949. His best year in point of winners was 1951 when he wound up third on the national list with 243. His biggest money year was 1958 when his 190 winners earned $467,305. His 2,001st winner was his 82nd of the current season. His lifetime totals through June 25: 11,401 mounts, 2,001 winners; 1,670 times second; 1,390 times third; $3,521,777 earned by his mounts.

Durelle And Moore Bout Set July 29

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Athletic Commission Monday approved a two-week postponement in the light heavyweight title bout between Champion Archie Moore and Canada's Yvon Durelle.

Moore last week requested the postponement to July 29 from July 15 when he bruised his left heel while doing roadwork. He was examined Monday by athletic commission doctors and later the commission announced its approval of the postponement.

Judge Finds Porter Not Guilty

After hearing the facts in the case against Kenneth McDonald Porter, 24, formerly of Corriganville, who was charged with larceny after trust, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris found him not guilty in Circuit Court yesterday.

Porter had been charged with the theft in a station wagon owned by Albert Mason, manager of the United Television Company. The vehicle was abandoned in Pennsylvania but has not been recovered.

Estel C. Kelley, attorney for Porter, informed the court that his client did not steal the station wagon as he had been paying $5 per week in a purchase plan. The vehicle was wrecked in Pennsylvania and Porter became worried and confused and fled, the court was told.

Judge Harris ruled that there was no larceny involved in the incident.

In World War I, the name zero hour was given to the time set for a predetermined attack. Later it was changed to H-hour.

Judge Finds Porter Not Guilty

After hearing the facts in the case against Kenneth McDonald Porter, 24, formerly of Corriganville, who was charged with larceny after trust, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris found him not guilty in Circuit Court yesterday.

Porter had been charged with the theft in a station wagon owned by Albert Mason, manager of the United Television Company. The vehicle was abandoned in Pennsylvania but has not been recovered.

Estel C. Kelley, attorney for Porter, informed the court that his client did not steal the station wagon as he had been paying $5 per week in a purchase plan. The vehicle was wrecked in Pennsylvania and Porter became worried and confused and fled, the court was told.

Judge Harris ruled that there was no larceny involved in the incident.

In World War I, the name zero hour was given to the time set for a predetermined attack. Later it was changed to H-hour.

Industrials Hit New High In Heavy Market Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market values were boosted another 2 billion dollars as industrial stocks pushed further into record high territory in a post-holiday rise paced by steel and motors.

The rise, continuing without hesitation after the three-day Fourth of July week-end, apparently convinced many that the summer rally is indeed under way.

Virtually all groups participated although there was softness noted in the oils and aircrafts and profit-taking reduced some prices from the day's best levels.

Turnover increased to a 3,720,000-share total from 3,610,000 shares on Thursday.

Activity centered in Glen Alden, up 2⅞.

Motors were among the most active issues traded with American in second place with a gain of 1¾ net and General Motors fourth, up 2⅛ on the day. Ford rose nearly a point but Chrysler dipped a bit. All but Chrysler set new highs during the day.

Gains in the steels ran to 5 points in Youngstown Sheet & Tube which spurted in the final half hour of trading. Wheeling Steel, recommended as Standard & Poor's "stock for action," rose 2⅝, Armco 2⅜, U.S. Steel 1⅞ and Bethlehem a point. Most established new tops during the session.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat was firm, but other grains were lower today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ⅛ to up ½; corn off ⅜ to 2¾; oats off 1¼ to 1⅜; new oats off ⅜ to ⅝; rye off ¼ to up ¼; soybeans unchanged to off ½.

Wheat lost its early strong tones as hedge selling appeared in the market. The September and December contracts were affected the most. But mills and exporters bought, and prices held above the previous close.

A good business in soft wheat flour was reported. Reports said Brazil bought 5,600,000 bushels of hard wheat.

Favorable weather and crop reports had a weakening effect on corn. July was under liquidating pressure and led the decline along with September. July lost nearly 3 cents. Most of the demand came from shorts.

Export subsidies were granted on 600,000 bushels of corn and 60,000 bushels of rye. Bids on 644,000 bushels of oats were rejected.

Oats started firm but weakened with corn. Cash houses were early buyers. The commission house trade was mixed.

Rye held firm until shortly before the close, when prices sagged to a steady tone.

Soybeans also declined after an early firm start. Selling was due to favorable crop comments. Soybean oil was higher early, but it later receded.

Japan was reported to have bought 19,000 tons of soybeans for August-September shipment, and an estimated 10,000 tons on beans were reported sold to the continent. The range:

Police Unit Gets Praise

Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming praised the work of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Commissioner Fleming said unfavorable publicity had been directed at the organization because of the actions of a member of the unit last week. He pointed out that the man had been discharged from the volunteer group, and that the entire membership should not be judged on the basis of his actions.

The commissioner said the activities of the Auxiliary Police have been of great assistance, particularly in traffic work, and that Police Sgt. John H. Newhouse had a well-trained and efficient crew available for duty in emergencies.

Commissioner Fleming presented a report on the activities of the Police and Fire departments for June. The police made 926 arrests during the month and collected $1,859 in fines. The firemen answered 22 calls last month, with damage being listed as minor.

The report concluded with the comment that more traffic signs are needed by the Police Department, and that a new utility truck has been recommended for the Fire Department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech offered an official expression of regret and sympathy in the death of Robert L. Ritchie Jr., a city survey crew employe who was fatally injured last week while stunting at the Celanese swimming pool.

Industrials Hit New High In Heavy Market Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market values were boosted another 2 billion dollars as industrial stocks pushed further into record high territory in a post-holiday rise paced by steel and motors.

The rise, continuing without hesitation after the three-day Fourth of July week-end, apparently convinced many that the summer rally is indeed under way.

Virtually all groups participated although there was softness noted in the oils and aircrafts and profit-taking reduced some prices from the day's best levels.

Turnover increased to a 3,720,000-share total from 3,610,000 shares on Thursday.

Activity centered in Glen Alden, up 2⅞.

Motors were among the most active issues traded with American in second place with a gain of 1¾ net and General Motors fourth, up 2⅛ on the day. Ford rose nearly a point but Chrysler dipped a bit. All but Chrysler set new highs during the day.

Gains in the steels ran to 5 points in Youngstown Sheet & Tube which spurted in the final half hour of trading. Wheeling Steel, recommended as Standard & Poor's "stock for action," rose 2⅝, Armco 2⅜, U.S. Steel 1⅞ and Bethlehem a point. Most established new tops during the session.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat was firm, but other grains were lower today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ⅛ to up ½; corn off ⅜ to 2¾; oats off 1¼ to 1⅜; new oats off ⅜ to ⅝; rye off ¼ to up ¼; soybeans unchanged to off ½.

Wheat lost its early strong tones as hedge selling appeared in the market. The September and December contracts were affected the most. But mills and exporters bought, and prices held above the previous close.

A good business in soft wheat flour was reported. Reports said Brazil bought 5,600,000 bushels of hard wheat.

Favorable weather and crop reports had a weakening effect on corn. July was under liquidating pressure and led the decline along with September. July lost nearly 3 cents. Most of the demand came from shorts.

Export subsidies were granted on 600,000 bushels of corn and 60,000 bushels of rye. Bids on 644,000 bushels of oats were rejected.

Oats started firm but weakened with corn. Cash houses were early buyers. The commission house trade was mixed.

Soybeans also declined after an early firm start. Selling was due to favorable crop comments. Soybean oil was higher early, but it later receded.

Japan was reported to have bought 19,000 tons of soybeans for August-September shipment, and an estimated 10,000 tons on beans were reported sold to the continent. The range:

Police Unit Gets Praise

Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming praised the work of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Commissioner Fleming said unfavorable publicity had been directed at the organization because of the actions of a member of the unit last week. He pointed out that the man had been discharged from the volunteer group, and that the entire membership should not be judged on the basis of his actions.

The commissioner said the activities of the Auxiliary Police have been of great assistance, particularly in traffic work, and that Police Sgt. John H. Newhouse had a well-trained and efficient crew available for duty in emergencies.

Commissioner Fleming presented a report on the activities of the Police and Fire departments for June. The police made 926 arrests during the month and collected $1,859 in fines. The firemen answered 22 calls last month, with damage being listed as minor.

The report concluded with the comment that more traffic signs are needed by the Police Department, and that a new utility truck has been recommended for the Fire Department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech offered an official expression of regret and sympathy in the death of Robert L. Ritchie Jr., a city survey crew employe who was fatally injured last week while stunting at the Celanese swimming pool.

Industry Fund Solicitation Begins Here

Committee Named To Seek Pledges

Fifty-two business and professional leaders of Cumberland yesterday began the solicitation of CIDC Industrial Promotion Fund subscriptions from firms and individuals who either were unable to attend last week's CIDC meeting or were not in a position to pledge at that time.

Heading this effort with Chairman C. M. Sanner are William A. Douglas, Garland L. Johnston, Lynn C. Lashley, Joseph M. Naughton, Charles A. Piper and Albert W. Tindal.

CIDC subscribers have the option of paying all, or at least half, of their pledges by September 15, 1959, and the balance by February 15, 1960.

George M. Young, president of The Crystal Laundry Company, has encouraged the committee with a Monday morning mail surprise of a check covering the full amount of his company's subscription of $500.

Competition Intense

"Mr. Young's action and the $33,150 subscribed by 26 companies to date have set an excellent pace for other business and professional firms and individuals," Mr. Sanner said. "We hope that the latter will as readily volunteer their fair shares of the costs of keeping the Cumberland Area active in the intense competition among communities for new and expanded industries."

"The industrial promotion job is one we must do for ourselves," Mr. Sanner continued. "Our utilities and railroads contribute to our Promotion Fund and are very helpful in bringing industrial prospects to our attention. This is the most, however, that can be expected of them. Cumberland, after all, is but one of many cities and towns they serve."

Cumberland's industrial promotion costs have averaged close to $22,000 annually since 1952. Success in CIDC's present campaign to raise at least $100,000 will assure continuation of this effort through 1963.

Success will also clear the way for CIDC to initiate another program of providing community-financed buildings into which manufacturers can move with little investment of working capital in land or plant.

State Aid Possible

Community-financed industrial plants have become, in recent years, one of the dominant factors influencing location decisions by manufacturers. Such a plant is occupied under a lease or lease-purchase agreement which assures repayment in full over a period of years of all costs of the projects.

In its articles of incorporation the Cumberland Industrial Development Company is provided with the powers needed for it to acquire, hold, sell, lease or rent property and to borrow and loan money. With public subscriptions, other than the Industrial Promotion Fund currently being raised, CIDC will furnish a means for the Cumberland Area to help industries by building community-financed plants for them.

It is also expected that CIDC, in industrial building projects, will be eligible to qualify for assistance from the Development Credit Corporation of Maryland, for which enabling legislation was enacted in the latest session of the Legislature. This assistance could be in the form of either a direct loan to CIDC or a loan to an industry.

Rawlings Family Returns Home

A Rawlings family, reported missing earlier in the day, returned to their home yesterday and relatives last night said the father had been hunting a job in Pennsylvania.

A 13-state alarm was sent out for the family of John Winkler, 43, when his brother-in-law, Paul W. Riggleman, McCoole, reported to state police the man and his wife and five children had not been heard from since they left Keyser, on June 28.

Mr. Winkler said he and his family had visited other relatives in Pennsylvania and that he had sought another job there. They said they had intended to write while they were away, but had just failed to do so.

Mr. Winkler, his wife, Josephine, 34, and their children, Willard, 16; Darlene, 8, Mary Ellen, 6; Sarah Mae, 3; and John, nine months, all were reported in excellent health. Mr. Winkler has been employed as a dairyman at the Wilbur Collins farm near Rawlings.

Pair Completes Bicycle Trek

Jay Hughes, left, and Mark Lazarus III, are shown as they visited the local office of Rep. John R. Foley, to thank his secretary, Mrs. Anne B. Everline, for assistance given them in planning a successful bicycle trip along the C&O Canal from Cumberland to Washington. The boys made the journey in less than five days, cooked their own meals and camped at night along the way. They are already planning for a more extensive experience next summer.

Two AHS Boys Back Home After Trip Along Canal

Like intrepid and nonchalant explorers, Mark Lazarus III, and Jay Hughes, ninth graders at Allegany High School, are back home after a 185-mile bicycle ride along the C&O Canal from Cumberland to Washington.

Yesterday the boys stopped in to see Mrs. Anne B. Everline, secretary in Congressman John R. Foley's local office, to make a promised report to her to express their appreciation for the assistance she and the Congressman gave them in planning and completing the trip.

The boys said that they were met in Washington by representatives from Congressman Foley's office, and were interviewed by "big city reporters." They were guests of Rep. Foley for lunch at the House of Representatives dining room and then were taken on a tour of the capitol by Mrs. Doris Solomon, one of Mr. Foley's Washington aides.

The two explorers also visited Annapolis, Glen Echo, Arlington National Cemetery, Smithsonian Institute and other points of interest before returning to Cumberland.

The pair left here on Thursday, June 25, at 6 a. m. with carefully made plans, two bicycles, two sleeping bags, two packs and two canteens, plus a couple of cameras. Their equipment was planned to reduce weight and they took along only what they needed, plus a limited supply of food, which was augmented along the way by small purchases. It was their original intention to take six days for the journey, but everything went so well the first day, they reached Oldtown far ahead of schedule and pressed on to Little Orleans, where they camped for the night.

By the end of the second day they had reached Williamsport where they camped the second night. The third night was spent on the Shepherd College campus and the fourth night at White's Ferry. They arrived in Washington at 3:30 p. m. the fifth day, Monday, about 24 hours ahead of their planned schedule.

The boys were impressed with the scenic beauty along the way, and like most people who have traveled the canal tow path in recent years, they believe the whole thing should be opened so it will attract tourists and be of benefit to all the people.

They were particularly impressed with the numerous kinds of birds, game and wildlife they saw, and also with the numerous beautiful and scenic spots. They said they took about five rolls of film as a record of their experience.

There were few disturbing features in the journey, the boys reported. At several points, they had to carry their bicycles around fences, where "squatters" have fenced in the tow path, and there were several sections where the mud was very bad. One of them fell in the mud but was uninjured and one canteen was lost during the 185-mile ride.

Otherwise it was an interesting and exciting experience and both agree that they are ready to undertake such a trip again. They are talking about several possibilities for next summer.

Mark Lazarus III is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lazarus Jr., 919 Camden Avenue, and Jay Hughes is a son of Mrs. Betty Hughes, 393½ McMullen Highway.

State Plans Additional Park Lands

Garrett County Being Included

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State officials hope to add 6,500 acres of park land next year to a program aimed at developing recreational areas for Maryland.

More than two-thirds of a recent $2,750,000 capital improvement budget request is for land acquisition, Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks, said Monday.

The department has a 10-year goal of expanding the present park system from 17,000 acres to 43,000. Most of the large projects are underway.

"We are giving priority to the Washington-Baltimore population corridor, because if we don't get land there soon we won't get it," Kaylor said.

The chief project in this section is Gunpowder Falls State Park, which eventually will cover 11,600 acres serving the metropolitan Baltimore area. The Legislature already appropriated $1,000,000 toward the $3,518,000 project. The department will request an additional $1,500,000 next year and the remaining $1,018,000 for land acquisition in fiscal 1962.

Kaylor explained that all of the money doesn't actually go for the purchase of land. Much is channeled into title searches, appraisals and other incidental expenses.

The department also hopes to acquire further land next year in the South Mountain-Catoctin watershed, Deep Creek Lake State Park, and others.

They are among 37 different items listed in the proposed capital improvements program for fiscal 1961 which awaits approval by the State Planning Commission and the governor.

Those listed in order of priority after Gunpowder are:

No. 4 — South Mountain-Catoctin watershed — $100,000 requested as the second step in a $600,000 land acquisition project to protect watersheds in Frederick and Washington counties.

No. 8 — Deep Creek Lake — $10,000 to acquire 50 additional acres at this Garrett County resort where a new State park was opened July 1. Assigned slightly lower priority in the same budget are $25,000 for continued beach development at Deep Creek, $35,000 to expand the picnic area and $20,000 for enlargement of camping facilities.

Most of the other items in the proposed budget are for improvements at presently existing parks. These include:

Gathland — $25,000 for water supply system, $40,000 for restoration of the library building and $10,000 for site improvements.

New Germany — $27,000 as the first step in a three-year program of additional cabin construction, $10,000 for beach construction, $12,500 for sanitary facilities.

Swallow Falls — $27,500 to enlarge and improve camping area (part of a $40,000 project).

Herrington Manor — $15,000 for construction of equipment storage shed.

Option Signed For LaVale Shopping Mart

The New England Industries, a Connecticut corporation, has signed an option agreement with a LaVale couple for land on U.S. Route 40 near the Braddock Road intersection for possible use as a shopping center.

The papers were filed yesterday in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court. The corporation signed the option agreement with Joseph A. Smith and his wife, Theresa B. Smith.

George Waingold, city, who is acting as a rental agent for the firm, said last night the possible target date for opening the center will be September 1, 1960.

He has approached several businessmen of Cumberland to learn if they are interested in leasing stores in the center.

If everything "lines up" satisfactorily, ground will be broken probably next Spring and stores ready for occupancy by September, Mr. Waingold said.

The LaVale couple granted the option to the firm to purchase about six acres of land beginning June 1 of this year and expiring 90 days later.

According to the agreement it will permit the New England Industries to erect and maintain a retail shopping center with appropriate parking facilities.

It is stipulated in the agreement that a portion of the cost of the land will be paid when the contract is signed and the balance when the deed is delivered to the firm.

Woodworking Prize Winners Are Honored

Certificate, Tool Box Presented

Carpenters Local 1024 last night honored the winners of its first woodworking contest and presented a membership card and a box of tools to the 1959 contest winner.

A certificate of merit for the completion of a four-year apprenticeship course was presented to Charles M. Brooks, 23, of 29 Weber Street, winner of the 1954 contest.

The Department of Labor certificate was presented by F. Patrick Allender, business agent, during a meeting of the local in the Allegany Labor Temple here.

Mr. Brooks, who completed his apprenticeship last November 22, is employed as a carpenter foreman by the George F. Hazelwood Company on the construction of the new St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

A similar certificate from the Carpenters International attesting the completion of the apprenticeship was presented by Ralph E. Porter, president of Local 1024.

Union officials presented a membership card and a tool box to Lawrence Cosgrove, RFD 4, who graduated last month from Fort Hill High School.

The new apprentice carpenter was judged the winner in the woodworking contest sponsored by Local 1024 for the outstanding student from vocational and industrial classes in the high schools of the county.

Robert W. Riley, 26, of 120 Monroe Street, who was injured in a 63-foot fall Friday while working on a construction job at the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, was reported "a little better but still on the critical list" last night at University Hospital in Baltimore.

Potomac Council Events Show Increase In 10 Years

The number of units and scouts in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts has doubled during the last 10 years, according to a report made at the annual business meeting recently.

The report showed that in 1949 there were 45 units and 1,169 boys enrolled in the scouting program in this area. At the end of the fiscal year of 1958, the council had grown to 97 units and 2,416 youths.

Ivan A. Hall, chairman of organization and extension, said the goal for the council in 1959 is 110 units and a total membership of 2,805 boys.

The number of youths who take part in the annual summer camp program also has increased greatly during the last 10 years, according to Ross O. Decker, chairman of camping and activities.

Mr. Decker's report showed that in 1949 only 304 youths attended summer camp. Last year, 693 youths took advantage of the camp at Camp Potomac, and this year more than 700 different youths will spend at least a week at the camp site.

The program of training leaders also has shown marked progress during the last decade as 57 top leaders of the council underwent training in 1958. This was an increase of 33 over the 24 trained in 1949. K. S. McKee, chairman of leadership training, said the 1959 goal for leaders trained is 79.

John L. Towler, advancement chairman, said the number of advancements rose from 283 in 1949 to 903 in 1958. Mr. Towler said the 1959 goal for advancements is 1,085.

The operating expenditures had more than doubled during the 10-year period, according to Clarence Lippel, finance chairman, who was recently elected president of the council.

Mr. Lippel's report showed that in 1949 Potomac Council had a budget of $9,391.76 in 1949, while in 1958 $22,843.94 was allotted for the budget. The council has set a goal of $30,842 for its 1959 budget, according to Mr. Lippel's report.

The annual business meeting was presided over by Edmund S. Burke, retiring president, and included the presentation of the President's Cup to Deep Creek District for the last six month period.

The award is made on the basis of various activities and was started by the late Dr. Thomas Bess of Keyser. Nemacolin Trail was second and Tri-Valley placed third in the contest for the cup.

Basement Fire Doesn't Bother Theatre Patrons

Generator Motor Burns At Strand

An overheated generator caught fire yesterday, filling the basement and lobby of the Strand Theatre with smoke, but the approximately 75 patrons continued to watch the show, many of them apparently unaware that firemen had been called to the scene.

The 5:50 p. m. alarm sent an engine and the hook and ladder truck from Central Fire Company to the Liberty Street treatre where firemen found smoke pouring from the sidewalk grates and into the entranceway of the building.

The generator, located in a concrete room in the basement of the building, is used to operate the air conditioning unit for the theatre. The machine was badly damaged by the fire.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze, then used a huge window fan from fire headquarters to blow the heavy, acrid smoke from the basement. No other damage was reported.

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company was called to the John Bunner residence on Forest Avenue about 6:30 p. m. when a fire got out of control while a pile of lumber was being burned.

Twenty men answered the alarm for Bowman's Addition and they were assisted by three pieces of equipment and 18 men from the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company.

Firemen said Mr. Bunner, who lives across the street from the house, was burning excess lumber at his newly constructed stone residence which is unoccupied. He is planning to leave for a new job in Tennessee and had placed the house for sale, firemen said.

The owner was burning the lumber, piled nearby, when a sudden electrical storm blew up. A quick gust of wind got the fire out of control and scattered it, firemen said.

The intense heat from the burning lumber badly damaged one side of Mr. Bunner's new house, they said. Stone and mortar were cracked and windows were also damaged by the fire.

Several hundred gallons of water were used to extinguish the flames. The house is located near the Northeast Elementary School.

Industry Fund Solicitation Begins Here

Committee Named To Seek Pledges

Fifty-two business and professional leaders of Cumberland yesterday began the solicitation of CIDC Industrial Promotion Fund subscriptions from firms and individuals who either were unable to attend last week's CIDC meeting or were not in a position to pledge at that time.

Heading this effort with Chairman C. M. Sanner are William A. Douglas, Garland L. Johnston, Lynn C. Lashley, Joseph M. Naughton, Charles A. Piper and Albert W. Tindal.

CIDC subscribers have the option of paying all, or at least half, of their pledges by September 15, 1959, and the balance by February 15, 1960.

George M. Young, president of The Crystal Laundry Company, has encouraged the committee with a Monday morning mail surprise of a check covering the full amount of his company's subscription of $500.

Competition Intense

"Mr. Young's action and the $33,150 subscribed by 26 companies to date have set an excellent pace for other business and professional firms and individuals," Mr. Sanner said. "We hope that the latter will as readily volunteer their fair shares of the costs of keeping the Cumberland Area active in the intense competition among communities for new and expanded industries."

"The industrial promotion job is one we must do for ourselves," Mr. Sanner continued. "Our utilities and railroads contribute to our Promotion Fund and are very helpful in bringing industrial prospects to our attention. This is the most, however, that can be expected of them. Cumberland, after all, is but one of many cities and towns they serve."

Cumberland's industrial promotion costs have averaged close to $22,000 annually since 1952. Success in CIDC's present campaign to raise at least $100,000 will assure continuation of this effort through 1963.

Success will also clear the way for CIDC to initiate another program of providing community-financed buildings into which manufacturers can move with little investment of working capital in land or plant.

State Aid Possible

Community-financed industrial plants have become, in recent years, one of the dominant factors influencing location decisions by manufacturers. Such a plant is occupied under a lease or lease-purchase agreement which assures repayment in full over a period of years of all costs of the projects.

In its articles of incorporation the Cumberland Industrial Development Company is provided with the powers needed for it to acquire, hold, sell, lease or rent property and to borrow and loan money. With public subscriptions, other than the Industrial Promotion Fund currently being raised, CIDC will furnish a means for the Cumberland Area to help industries by building community-financed plants for them.

It is also expected that CIDC, in industrial building projects, will be eligible to qualify for assistance from the Development Credit Corporation of Maryland, for which enabling legislation was enacted in the latest session of the Legislature. This assistance could be in the form of either a direct loan to CIDC or a loan to an industry.

Rawlings Family Returns Home

A Rawlings family, reported missing earlier in the day, returned to their home yesterday and relatives last night said the father had been hunting a job in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Winkler said he and his family had visited other relatives in Pennsylvania and that he had sought another job there. They said they had intended to write while they were away, but had just failed to do so.

Pair Completes Bicycle Trek

Jay Hughes, left, and Mark Lazarus III, are shown as they visited the local office of Rep. John R. Foley, to thank his secretary, Mrs. Anne B. Everline, for assistance given them in planning a successful bicycle trip along the C&O Canal from Cumberland to Washington. The boys made the journey in less than five days, cooked their own meals and camped at night along the way. They are already planning for a more extensive experience next summer.

Two AHS Boys Back Home After Trip Along Canal

Like intrepid and nonchalant explorers, Mark Lazarus III, and Jay Hughes, ninth graders at Allegany High School, are back home after a 185-mile bicycle ride along the C&O Canal from Cumberland to Washington.

Yesterday the boys stopped in to see Mrs. Anne B. Everline, secretary in Congressman John R. Foley's local office, to make a promised report to her to express their appreciation for the assistance she and the Congressman gave them in planning and completing the trip.

The boys said that they were met in Washington by representatives from Congressman Foley's office, and were interviewed by "big city reporters." They were guests of Rep. Foley for lunch at the House of Representatives dining room and then were taken on a tour of the capitol by Mrs. Doris Solomon, one of Mr. Foley's Washington aides.

The two explorers also visited Annapolis, Glen Echo, Arlington National Cemetery, Smithsonian Institute and other points of interest before returning to Cumberland.

The pair left here on Thursday, June 25, at 6 a. m. with carefully made plans, two bicycles, two sleeping bags, two packs and two canteens, plus a couple of cameras. Their equipment was planned to reduce weight and they took along only what they needed, plus a limited supply of food, which was augmented along the way by small purchases. It was their original intention to take six days for the journey, but everything went so well the first day, they reached Oldtown far ahead of schedule and pressed on to Little Orleans, where they camped for the night.

By the end of the second day they had reached Williamsport where they camped the second night. The third night was spent on the Shepherd College campus and the fourth night at White's Ferry. They arrived in Washington at 3:30 p. m. the fifth day, Monday, about 24 hours ahead of their planned schedule.

The boys were impressed with the scenic beauty along the way, and like most people who have traveled the canal tow path in recent years, they believe the whole thing should be opened so it will attract tourists and be of benefit to all the people.

They were particularly impressed with the numerous kinds of birds, game and wildlife they saw, and also with the numerous beautiful and scenic spots. They said they took about five rolls of film as a record of their experience.

There were few disturbing features in the journey, the boys reported. At several points, they had to carry their bicycles around fences, where "squatters" have fenced in the tow path, and there were several sections where the mud was very bad. One of them fell in the mud but was uninjured and one canteen was lost during the 185-mile ride.

Otherwise it was an interesting and exciting experience and both agree that they are ready to undertake such a trip again. They are talking about several possibilities for next summer.

Mark Lazarus III is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lazarus Jr., 919 Camden Avenue, and Jay Hughes is a son of Mrs. Betty Hughes, 393½ McMullen Highway.

State Plans Additional Park Lands

Garrett County Being Included

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State officials hope to add 6,500 acres of park land next year to a program aimed at developing recreational areas for Maryland.

More than two-thirds of a recent $2,750,000 capital improvement budget request is for land acquisition, Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks, said Monday.

The department has a 10-year goal of expanding the present park system from 17,000 acres to 43,000. Most of the large projects are underway.

"We are giving priority to the Washington-Baltimore population corridor, because if we don't get land there soon we won't get it," Kaylor said.

The chief project in this section is Gunpowder Falls State Park, which eventually will cover 11,600 acres serving the metropolitan Baltimore area. The Legislature already appropriated $1,000,000 toward the $3,518,000 project. The department will request an additional $1,500,000 next year and the remaining $1,018,000 for land acquisition in fiscal 1962.

Kaylor explained that all of the money doesn't actually go for the purchase of land. Much is channeled into title searches, appraisals and other incidental expenses.

The department also hopes to acquire further land next year in the South Mountain-Catoctin watershed, Deep Creek Lake State Park, and others.

They are among 37 different items listed in the proposed capital improvements program for fiscal 1961 which awaits approval by the State Planning Commission and the governor.

Those listed in order of priority after Gunpowder are:

No. 4 — South Mountain-Catoctin watershed — $100,000 requested as the second step in a $600,000 land acquisition project to protect watersheds in Frederick and Washington counties.

No. 8 — Deep Creek Lake — $10,000 to acquire 50 additional acres at this Garrett County resort where a new State park was opened July 1. Assigned slightly lower priority in the same budget are $25,000 for continued beach development at Deep Creek, $35,000 to expand the picnic area and $20,000 for enlargement of camping facilities.

Most of the other items in the proposed budget are for improvements at presently existing parks. These include:

Gathland — $25,000 for water supply system, $40,000 for restoration of the library building and $10,000 for site improvements.

New Germany — $27,000 as the first step in a three-year program of additional cabin construction, $10,000 for beach construction, $12,500 for sanitary facilities.

Swallow Falls — $27,500 to enlarge and improve camping area (part of a $40,000 project).

Herrington Manor — $15,000 for construction of equipment storage shed.

Option Signed For LaVale Shopping Mart

The New England Industries, a Connecticut corporation, has signed an option agreement with a LaVale couple for land on U.S. Route 40 near the Braddock Road intersection for possible use as a shopping center.

The papers were filed yesterday in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court. The corporation signed the option agreement with Joseph A. Smith and his wife, Theresa B. Smith.

George Waingold, city, who is acting as a rental agent for the firm, said last night the possible target date for opening the center will be September 1, 1960.

He has approached several businessmen of Cumberland to learn if they are interested in leasing stores in the center.

If everything "lines up" satisfactorily, ground will be broken probably next Spring and stores ready for occupancy by September, Mr. Waingold said.

The LaVale couple granted the option to the firm to purchase about six acres of land beginning June 1 of this year and expiring 90 days later.

According to the agreement it will permit the New England Industries to erect and maintain a retail shopping center with appropriate parking facilities.

It is stipulated in the agreement that a portion of the cost of the land will be paid when the contract is signed and the balance when the deed is delivered to the firm.

Potomac Council Events Show Increase In 10 Years

The number of units and scouts in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts has doubled during the last 10 years, according to a report made at the annual business meeting recently.

The report showed that in 1949 there were 45 units and 1,169 boys enrolled in the scouting program in this area. At the end of the fiscal year of 1958, the council had grown to 97 units and 2,416 youths.

Ivan A. Hall, chairman of organization and extension, said the goal for the council in 1959 is 110 units and a total membership of 2,805 boys.

The number of youths who take part in the annual summer camp program also has increased greatly during the last 10 years, according to Ross O. Decker, chairman of camping and activities.
